Wheel-Chair Wedding Ceremony

Even though both were injured in an auto crash, Jack Cole and Geraldine Ashe of Avon, N.Y., went ahead with their scheduled marriage. The date had been set three months ago, so they preferred being married in wheelchairs at a Rochester, N.Y., hospital rather than postpone the wedding.—(NEA Photo)

MacLean Lawyer Hints Accident

SYDNEY, N.S. (BUP)—The Crown was expected to call witnesses today to testify that ex-Mayor Dan Jack MacLean ran his car to and fro over the helpless body of voting registrar Joseph MacKinnon.

As the 65-year-old Cape Breton native headed into the court for the second day of his murder trial, Prosecuting Attorney Donald Finlayson sought to prove MacLean purposely killed the crippled election official.

Finlayson indicated he would spend today retracing both men's movements Dec. 18, the day the 63-year-old MacKinnon died. Court circles said he also would call school children who told a preliminary hearing they watched the incident and heard the crutch-carrying cripple cry "Stop, Jack, stop."

The trial opened Monday in a packed courtroom before Chief Justice Hsley, of Nova Scotia. MacLean, who was elected mayor of this steel and mining town for the fifth term a few days before his arrest, resigned while he was in hospital under police guard and being treated for a broken shoulder. In his letter of resignation he called MacKinnon "my lifelong friend" and termed his death "unfortunate."

The defence was expected to claim the voting official's death after a drinking party at MacLean's nearby summer cottage was accidental.

B.C. Farmers Urge Duty On Turkey Eggs

NEW WESTMINSTER (BUP)—Canadian breeders sought federal intervention today to prevent United States firms dumping turkey eggs in Canada.

Turkey raisers in the Fraser Valley area said they smelled a threat to their otherwise thriving industry in the gentle but wholesale dumping of U.S. gobblers' efforts.

Provincial government authorities said they were investigating reports of widespread dumping. Gordon Landon, provincial poultry commissioner, said his office had been deluged with complaints from B.C. breeders who feared admission into Canada of the American eggs would cut deeply into their earnings.

Landon said that if the reports were substantiated he would ask federal authorities to impose a duty on eggs to prevent Canadian breeders going broke.

Survivors Of Crash Testify

LLANDOW, Wales (UP)—Civil Air Ministry investigators talked today with two of the three survivors of the plane crash Sunday in which 80 men and women were killed.

Gwynne Anthony, 26, and Handel Rogers, 33, escaped with only shock and bruises. They were seated in the extreme rear of the four-engine Tudor V when it plunged into a Welsh field.

The other survivor, Melville Thomas, 23, was still in a dangerous condition.

Royal Air Force men cordoned the field while experts went over the wreckage.

CZECH PURGE FORESEEN IN RESIGNATION

Clementis Quits As Minister Of Foreign Affairs

PRAGUE (CP)—Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis of Czechoslovakia has resigned. Deputy Premier Vilam Siroky has been named as his successor.

The official announcement today gave no reason for the resignation of Clementis, a Communist journalist and lawyer who succeeded the late Jan Masaryk as Foreign Minister in March, 1948.

(The resignation came on the heels of reports that a wholesale purge is imminent in the ranks of the Czech Communist Party on charges of Titoism. It gave rise to speculation that Clementis would be brought to trial on charges that he had not been faithful to the brand of Communism demanded by Russia as opposed to the "independent" Communism of Premier Tito of Yugoslavia.)

The official Czech news agency said Clementis' resignation had been accepted by President Klement Gottwald on the recommendation of Premier Antonin Zapotocky. Gottwald was premier two years ago when he appointed Clementis.

An official communique said that Clementis had personally handed Zapotocky his resignation and Zapotocky had recommended that President Klement Gottwald accept it.

The communique said the premier at the same time recommended to the president that Siroky be put in charge of the foreign ministry and that the president had accepted this recommendation.

Rumors that Clementis had fallen into disfavor with the Communist leaders because of "deviationism" started last November when he was at the United Nations Assembly meeting at Lake Success as leader of the Czech delegation.

The stories were prompted by arrest of many of his staff in Prague during a purge of Czech Communists last year.

Clementis denied the reports.

HORSEMEAT SOLD ON SLY TO 2 SEATTLE BUTCHERS

SEATTLE (AP)—A horsemeat dealer testified at his divorce hearing that he had sold several hundred pounds of horsemeat a week to two Seattle butchers for more than two years.

Lewis A. Butchart, operator of the Montana Horsemeat Co. in a Seattle public market, said the butchers bought between 150 and 200 pounds each a week during 1947 and 1948.

He said he would leave the meat in his parked car. The two buyers would pick it up there and leave cash payments in an appointed hiding place.

There was no indication what was done with the meat, but two city health department officials sat through the superior court hearing Monday "to get all available evidence before deciding what to do." A city ordinance forbids sale of horsemeat where other meat is handled.

Butchart's testimony resulted from questioning by his wife's attorney in an effort to prove her contention that he had withheld unreported income from community funds.

Butchart denied the contention and has filed a cross-complaint asking that he be granted a divorce.

Could Not Go On

New York To Bet On Rain-Makers

NEW YORK (UP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer planned today to risk $50,000 on scientific rain-making experiment to end a year-long drought in the nation's biggest city.

He said he wanted to supply a team of meteorological experts with airplanes, radar and cloud-seeding apparatus immediately in hope of filling half-empty reservoirs before heavy summer consumption begins.

If the scheme works out, the threat of weekly water holidays and other conservation measures would be ended for New Yorkers who have been asked to skip baths and shaves at least once a week since December.

O'Dwyer will ask the city board of estimate to appropriate the needed funds this afternoon. The $50,000 will finance the first six months of what he expects will be a year-long experiment.

"If we succeed in making rain," O'Dwyer said, "it might well be the experiment that will set a standard in solving water problems in many parts of the world."

O'Dwyer visualized ultimate conversion of deserts into fertile crop lands and an end to damaging droughts.

The plan has two purposes. Primarily it is aimed at forcing clouds over the city's upstate watershed area to loose their water, filling the city's reservoirs which sank to critical levels last fall through rising consumption and a prolonged period of scanty rainfall.

The second aim is to give scientists knowledge of how best to induce and control artificial rain or snow.

All known means for milking rains from clouds will be used. Airplanes flying over and through clouds will sow quantities of dry ice. Ground containers will cast silver iodide upward toward the cloud bottoms.

NOBODY YET 'ET, SAYS EXPERT

Cold Water Thrown On Yarns Wolves Attacked Man, Woman

TIMAGAMI, Ont. (CP)—Two forestry experts today threw cold water on recent stories of attacks by wolves on two human beings. They said the stories couldn't be proved, thereby bolstering a long-standing contention that wolves will not attack humans.

But that old saying of Jim Curran, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, that says he has been bit by a wolf is a "lie," looked considerably shaken for a time.

One report was that a young lumber worker was attacked by two wolves a few miles south of here. His clothing was torn before he was rescued. Another report said the trail mother of two children was attacked by wolves five miles north of McKerron, near Sudbury.

Burly Paul Hoffman, chief forest ranger in this town 50 miles north of North Bay, said the report of the attack on the lumber worker "was so unusual we investigated at once. We discovered that the unfortunate young man who was... subject to fits. He had one of these on the trail."

"A number of workers came upon him in a dishevelled condition just after he had recovered. Somehow the story started that he had been attacked by wolves."

But examination of the scene showed no animals had been within half a mile, Hoffman added. The young man himself could not recall what had happened.

The other report was discounted by Charles Bibby, chief game overseer of the Sudbury district. This story was that a woman weighing only 100 pounds, had fought off wolf attacks with a sleigh on which she had been hauling groceries.

Bibby said "It's a thousand-to-one that the animals were dogs." He pointed out the incident occurred in darkness, making it difficult to identify the animals.

Bibby declared flatly: "There hasn't been an authenticated case yet where wolves have attacked a human."

Sequel To Judgment From Supreme Court

OTTAWA (BUP)—Justice Minister Stuart Garson served notice today he would ask for a 13-month extension to federal rent controls.

The controls, and other wartime regulations, were based on the continuation of the Transitional Measures Act, which was scheduled to expire at the end of this month.

Garson, however, gave notice on the Commons order paper he would ask to have the act extended to April 30, 1951.

In past sessions, the government sought merely one-year extensions, each to coincide with the end of the federal fiscal year, March 31.

No explanation was given in Garson's motion for the 13-month extension, but it was understood to have been proposed in order to give Parliament more time next year to consider whether further extensions were necessary.

COURT DECISION

The government was given the green light to extend federal rent controls March 1 when the Supreme Court of Canada ruled they were valid.

The cabinet had asked the Supreme Court to give its opinion whether federal rent controls were within the power of the federal government and whether the government had power to carry out a policy of gradual control.

The Supreme Court said it did. Normally, rent control fell within the realm of property and civil rights, a matter under which the constitution was strictly reserved for provincial jurisdiction.

The Supreme Court said, however, it was legally proper for Parliament to declare there was a national emergency in housing and to pass federal rent controls "for the peace, order and good government of Canada."

20 Reds Held After Clash At Hannover

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—Twenty Communist demonstrators were arrested today after an hour-long clash between police and a crowd of nearly 1,000 Communists.

The melee started when the crowd, including Communist youth members and several women, gathered to prevent a British officer from entering the plant of outlawed Communist newspaper Volksstimme.

The Communists gathered in front of the printing plant shortly after a British high court had sentenced two of the paper's eight editors to prison terms of a year and 18 months respectively for publishing stories endangering security of the western allies.

Two of the editors had been acquitted and four will be retried at a later date. The British officer, Col. Walter Witham, went to the plant with a court order authorizing him to impound the property.

GUAY GUILTY

QUEBEC (CP)—J. Albert Guay today was found guilty of the murder of his wife in an air disaster which killed 22 others. The case was handed to the jurors at 12.10, E.S.T., and within a few minutes they had returned and rendered their verdict.

Convicted Spy Judith Coplon Raising Bail

NEW YORK (UP)—Judy Coplon expects to go free on $40,000 bail today, but Valentin Gubitehev, her convicted partner in espionage conspiracy, will sit in jail for his few remaining days in the United States.

Attorneys for the twice-convicted Miss Coplon need to raise an additional $20,000 to meet the $40,000 bail set Monday by Federal Judge Thomas W. Sawin pending her appeal from a 15-year prison sentence.

Only $20,000 was needed because the other half already was available from the $20,000 bail on which she was free during her trial with the Russian engineer. She also has furnished $20,000 covering her previous conviction in Washington where another appeal is pending.

CANCEL APPEAL

Abraham Pomerantz, Gubitehev's attorney, will withdraw the Soviet diplomat's appeal from his conviction today, clearing the way of legal obstacles blocking an order sending him back to Russia.

Withdrawal of the appeal means that Gubitehev must remain in a cell at the federal detention quarters until he is placed aboard the Polish liner Batory next Monday.

Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan ordered the pint-sized Russian to appear before him Monday morning when he will suspend the prison sentence. Then guards will place him aboard a government cutter which will meet the out-bound liner at the mouth of New York Harbor where he will be transferred for the ocean voyage.

Coalition For Greece Likely; Must Act Soon

ATHENS (UP)—King Paul will meet tomorrow with the leaders of top Greek political parties to discuss plans for a new government.

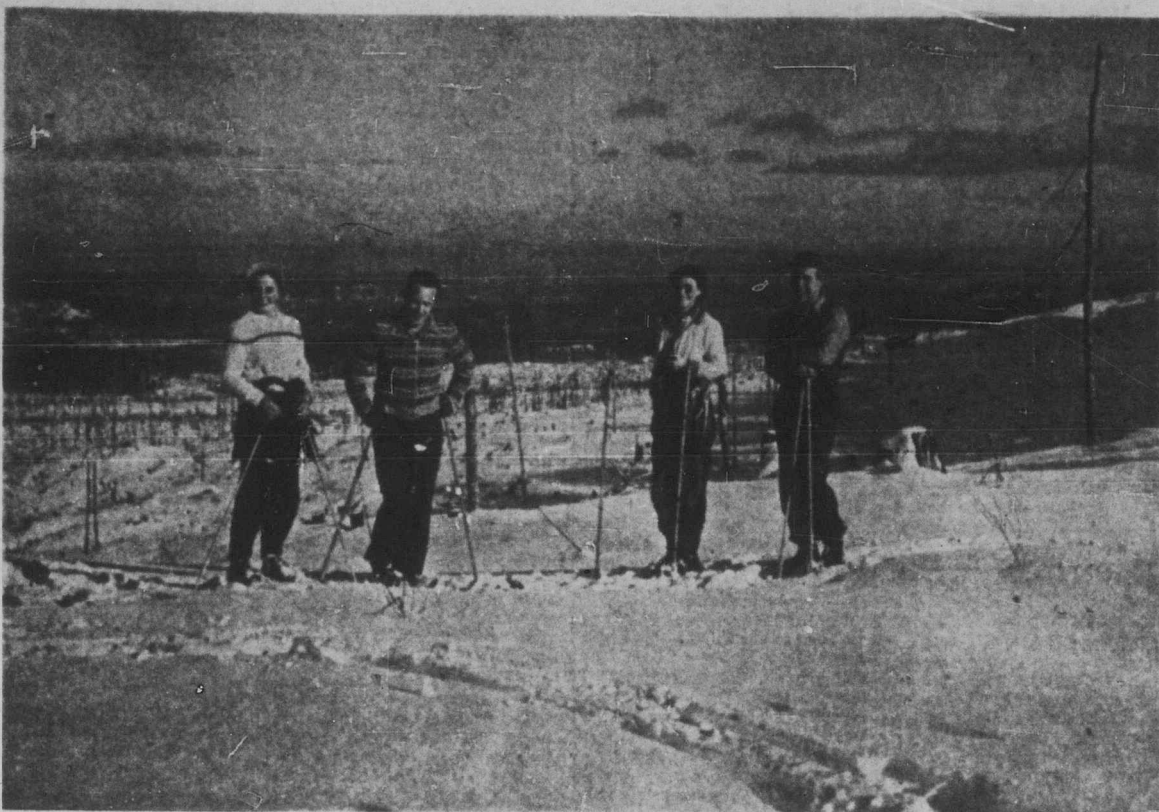

The King said the government "probably" would be made up of four middle-of-the-road parties "if they can continue to stick together."

Ordinarily the strongest party is invited to form a government. But the winning Right Wing Populists got only 23 per cent of the votes in the March 5 elections and were not believed likely to agree to a coalition.

The next four strongest parties received a combined vote of more than 50 per cent and have agreed to a joint administration of the new government.

The King said the government would be formed within two weeks.

Earlier the Ministry of Interior had announced that Constantine Tsaldaris' Populist Party won 50 seats in the 250-seat Parliament in the March 5 election.

Extension Of Rent Control For 13 Months To Be Asked

HUNT LEOPARD AT AUCKLAND

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (UPI)—A leopard on the loose gave Auckland a taste today of the jitters which afflicted Oklahoma City recently. A half-grown leopard escaped from the Auckland Zoo sometime between Sunday and today. The escape apparently was prompted by attempts to smoke it out of its lair, where it was invisible from ringside positions. The leopard was believed today to be lurking in the vicinity of the zoo.

May Build Centre On Savory Site

All signs point to Victoria getting its new $100,000 Welfare Centre at the corner of Cook and Pembroke Streets, on property known as the Savory Estate. After two unsuccessful attempts at obtaining city property, the Spencer Foundation Committee, through John Barraclough, wrote City Council today that "the most desirable (site) which is likely to be available to us, is the property known as the Savory Estate." The committee applied for the property or such portion as would be required for the project. The request may mark the finish to the long municipal squabble over sites the city would be willing to relinquish for the centre.

$200 Handy Addition To Holiday Budget

H. R. McLeod, 2255 Wakefield Road, netted 200 easy dollars last week. Planning to change his address in the near future, he decided he could do without a walnut dinette suite, a washing machine, several gardening tools and some miscellaneous articles. His first thoughts were focused on the Times classified section. He dialed B 3131, advertised the dinette suite for $150 and the washing machine for $30. After a single day, Mr. McLeod had sold everything but one or two marked miscellaneous, and walked away at most $200 richer.

QUESTIONS FOR POLICE BOARD

Vancouver Demanding End Of Hoodlumism

VANCOUVER (CP)—This city's council is dissatisfied with police handling of a flare-up of juvenile gang warfare here Friday night.

Specifically, the council has three questions to ask the police commission concerning the riots involving nearly 100 youths which broke out in two suburban areas.

"1. Why was there inadequate police protection in known gang trouble spots?
2. Why did police fail to arrest a drunken and disorderly 'ringleader' in one of the disturbances?"

Nationalists Beat Off Reds At Hainan

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—News reports from Hainan Island, off the South China coast, today said Nationalist troops beat back an attempt Sunday to land another 1,000 Communists on the island. Shore batteries drove off the invading Reds, the dispatch said, inflicting heavy casualties. Only 30 of the invaders succeeded in getting ashore and all were taken prisoners, the Nationalists claimed.

Meanwhile, observers in Formosa said there was no apparent basis for the assertion in New York of the former Acting President Li Tsung-jen, that the Nationalist army, navy and air force would rise up against President Chiang Kai-shek at a word from Li.

Traffic Jam At Melbourne

MELBOURNE (AP)—Melbourne, Australia's second largest city, today suffered its worst traffic jam and thousands walked to work because of a strike of streetcar and bus operators. Jury Finds Guay Guilty In Airline Murder Case

Verdict Quickly Given Execution Set June 23

QUEBEC City (BUP)—J. Albert Guay, the 32-year-old jewelry salesman who engineered what was called most bizarre crime in history, was sentenced today to hang on June 23.

Guay was found guilty of murdering his wife by the time-bombing of a DC-3 airliner which crashed at Sanit au Cochon, Que., on Sept. 9. Twenty-three persons, including Guay's wife Rita, perished in the tragedy.

The jury which passed sentence took only 20 minutes to decide Guay's fate, the shortest period ever taken by a jury in Canadian murder trial history.

After Judge Albert Sevigny passed sentence, Guay stood up and said in a clear voice: "I have nothing to say."

Pandemonium broke loose in court then. Judge Sevigny congratulated the 12-man all-French jury on their verdict amid wild scenes in the courtroom.

ORDER RESTORED
Police were forced to restore order.

Guay's death sentence climaxed one of the most sensational murder trials in Canadian history.

Throughout the 15 days of testimony the strain on all concerned was apparent.

The trial's highlights came when Mrs. Marguerite Pitre, one of Guay's accomplices to the crime, and Marie-Ange Robitaille, his self-confessed mistress, gave evidence.

They revealed how Guay had planned his wife's murder, with the aid of clockmaker Genereux Ruest, who helped make the fatal death-dealing time-bomb.

They showed in detail Guay's passion for Marie-Ange, a 19-year-old nightclub waitress, who admitted having lived with Guay as man and wife on several occasions.

Their evidence revealed Guay's inner thoughts as he worked and planned for the day of his wife's death, when 22 other innocent human beings were sent plummeting to their death in the ill-fated airliner.

From their testimony, the jury was able to decide how Guay forced Mrs. Pitre to plant the time-bomb aboard the airliner, then intended to make her confess to the crime and commit suicide.

EVIDENCE FITTED

And even on the day his wife was blown to pieces aboard the airliner, Marie-Ange revealed how Guay had attempted to make love to her a few hours after the crash.

On all sides, the evidence built up against Guay by Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion was knitted together like a jigsaw puzzle.

Witnesses said he cried when he was told of her death, and testified he had been good to his wife, buying her expensive clothes and flowers frequently.

But the waitress' evidence that Guay had made love to her proved to be one of the major marks against him.

Guay intended to marry Marie-Ange after his wife's death, the Crown charged.

"He even took out a $10,000 accident insurance policy on his wife's life before the crash which was intended to finance his betrothal to Marie-Ange," Dorion charged.

Announcement of Guay's death sentence followed a three-hour summing up from Judge Albert Sevigny, climaxed by his calling for the justice of God.

When Judge Sevigny ended his lengthy address to the tense-looking jury, he showed the emotion and strain of the long 15-day trial.

His final words were: "Nothing escapes the justice of God."

"Go and do your duty as jurymen to see that the laws of God and your country are respected and those who break them punished," he said dramatically.

Sydney Murder Victim Drunk, Chemist Says

SYDNEY, N.S. (BUP)—A Halifax chemist's report today, at the murder trial of Dan Jack MacKinnon, indicated that the victim, 63-year-old Joseph MacKinnon, was intoxicated when he was killed Dec. 18.

Prosecutor Donald Finlayson allowed the defence to read a report by Dr. Gordon Young, a biochemist, who made a diagnosis of the contents of MacKinnon's stomach shortly after he was run down by a car.

Dr. Young's statement that MacKinnon was in an "advanced state of intoxication" came as the trial of MacKinnon, pudgy five-time mayor of this steel city, entered its second day. MacKinnon is charged with the murder of MacKinnon, who was the city voting registrar.

It was likely all MacKinnon's severe injuries were caused by a car running over his body, he stated.

"But he could have received his black eye on another occasion," he added.

Prosecutor Finlayson brought four crown witnesses into the stand in an attempt to trace MacKinnon's movements on the day of MacKinnon's death.

Two of the witnesses admitted being bootleggers.

Mrs. Mary Nagy and Michael Markotich said they gave rum and beer to MacKinnon and MacKinnon several hours before MacKinnon's body was found in a darkened alleyway later on Dec. 18.

Body Of Child Found In Ditch

VANCOUVER (CP)—Muddy water, ruled by a drowning child's death struggles led a frantic father to the discovery of his 3½-year-old son's body in a drainage ditch in suburban Richmond.

The child, Melville Clarke, had been missing for an hour before his father and seven other men found the body. He apparently slipped from a plank which crossed the 10-foot deep ditch.

"I never thought when I took that first aid course," said his father sadly, "that I'd be using artificial respiration on my own son."

POOLING OF KNOWLEDGE URGED

Mayhew's Export-Import Plan Stirs Wider Trade Discussion

By GORDON LEIGHTON
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Innumerable inquiries following the suggestion of Hon. R. W. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, that an national export-import corporation be set up in Canada indicate an aroused general interest at home and abroad. As, at least, a definite suggestion to overcome trade difficulties arising from the misalignment of currencies, it is something to bite on.

So far it is not regarded as a complete answer to trade difficulties. Much too early for that, it has none the less provoked a volume of queries as to the mechanism envisioned.

Mr. Mayhew explained today to the Times that he did not propose a government-plush industry financed and managed corporation. He did foresee the possibilities of enhanced trading and a reduction of present difficulties if industry, manufacturers and exporters combined to pool their knowledge and facilities in one organization devoted to the promotion of foreign trade. Both from an import and export point of view multiple trading would be facilitated thereby. To this joint effort all the knowledge and assistance of the government's trade organization abroad would be especially valuable.

Finance and management would remain with the private firms interested. As the largest part of Canada's foreign trade is now concentrated in but few of these it should be possible for them to work out a common plan. Through this means lack of facilities or financial power would be largely removed as a bar to the exchange of goods and products whether on a barter or other basis the member thought.

In part the suggestion arises from Mr. Mayhew's experiences while travelling abroad on trade and other missions. He found the knowledge of many European trading organizations to be superior to our own. Yet the government of Canada has an excellent world-wide group of trade commissioners and assistants. These, he believes, complementing the national organization such as he proposes of exporters and importers, could be of invaluable assistance to that body.

Plan Major Changes For Route Of New Speedway

Works Minister Withholds Details Pending Final Agreement With Federal Government

There will be major changes in the route of the East Saanich Road for the new Victoria-Patricia Bay highway, but Public Works Minister E. C. Carson said today details of the diversions could not be given at this time.

The minister said actual route would be announced after final agreement had been reached with the national government on financial participation in the project.

He did say, however, it is proposed to use Douglas Street rather than Quadra Street as the city approach to the new 24-foot highway to the airport.

Immediate work on this section was not planned, though. "We've got to eliminate the major bottlenecks on the portion of the highway from Royal Oak to Patricia Bay first," the minister said. "Then we will be getting some return on the money we are spending."

Improvements to Douglas St. as the first step would not speed traffic up until after the bottlenecks were taken out, he added. The new highway, announced by the minister in the Legislature Monday, is to follow the East Saanich Road most of the way from Royal Oak to Patricia Bay with winding sections and dangerous curves eliminated.

Construction will be started this summer and crews will begin at the Saanich Health Centre on the city side of the Royal Oak junction of the East and West Saanich Roads, working toward Patricia Bay.

It is planned to eliminate the Royal Oak fork of the two existing highways.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

WOMAN M.P.'S

NOW THAT THE pundits have completed their postmortems over the British election results and the unsuccessful candidates have pondered upon what, to quote Shakespeare, "popp'd in between the election and my hopes," certain interesting facts are beginning to emerge out of the confusion caused by the closeness of the contest. One is the effect of the women's votes upon the result, the other the result of the vote upon women politicians.

According to analyses made by so-called experts in the analytical game, Mrs. John Bull had a great deal to do with the cutting down of the Labor government's very large majority to seven. One explanation is that the British housewife is less interested in "isms" and ideologies than in practical, every-day problems such as food rationing, prices, housing and employment.

BREAD-AND-BUTTER ISSUES

THAT MAY WELL be, for the average woman in any country is far more interested in what one might call the "bread-and-butter" issues than she is in matters which seem to her to be outside her own sphere.

That is an attitude I can understand, especially in women worn out and edgy after years of coping with queues, shortages, regulations and restrictions of all kinds. But it doesn't alter the fact that the issues which seem more remote, such as matters of foreign policy, economic, social and political problems on the international level, all have a way of coming back and intimately affecting our lives and our homes, whether we want them to or not.

FEWER WOMEN M.P.'S

AND IF, AS THOSE experts claim, the women's vote was a major factor in the British swing to the right, it makes me wonder if that same preponderance of feminine votes had anything to do with the results as far as the women M.P.'s are concerned.

For the final tallies show that there are now only 20 women in the House of Commons, as against 24 in the last Parliament—a number, by the way, which constituted a record. The reduction will suggest a rather lamentable retrogression to anyone who feels that women have a contribution to make to such assemblies. And it also raises the old question as to whether women do support women, as such, or whether they are more inclined to throw their support to male candidates in the political field.

LABORITES' LOSS

BUT WHATEVER the answer may be, the fact remains that five women Laborites were defeated, eleven re-elected, and there are three newcomers to their ranks. The Conservative women members rose from two to five. Incidentally, one of them is Miss Irene Ward, who defeated Rt. Hon. Margaret Bondfield in 1931, and was herself a victim to the Labor landslide in 1945.

Of the nine women Communists who ran for election in February not one succeeded in making the grade—a significant result which speaks for itself!

'A.P.' HAS GONE

AFTER ALL THAT reference to the distaff side of the House, it is worth noting that Westminster has suffered a notable loss in Sir Alan P. Herbert, the famous wit and playwright, who for many years sat as independent member for Oxford University. His seat was abolished under the 1948 act which put an end to the 347-year-old system of university representation.

As author of the outspoken book on divorce which led to the reform of the British divorce laws, Sir Alan will long be remembered in the House. But he will be even longer remembered for the sparkling and spontaneous humor with which he enlivened the often dull and dreary sessions.

HIS LAST SPEECH

SO IT WAS particularly opposite that, when speaking at a luncheon meeting given in his honor in London after announcing his decision not to seek another seat, Sir Alan commented:

"After 14½ years in the House of Commons I have been flung out, not by the electors, but by colleagues who have had to listen to my speeches. That is not a high encouragement for making speeches elsewhere, so I hope this will be my last."

Royalite Plans To Drill This Summer On Islands

Royalite Oil Company will likely commence drilling a well in the Gulf Islands by early summer, H. R. Hammond, assistant to the president on public relations, said here Monday.

He added that W. B. Gallup, Royalite's chief geologist, has been working out of Nanaimo with a geological party for the past two weeks in preparation for a more complete survey. He will make a report out at Calgary, and further action will likely hinge on this.

Royalite obtained a large block of Crown and freehold leases on the Gulf Islands last fall.

INFORMATION FOR FUTURE

The oil company official said information gathered from drilling on Graham Island in the Queen Charlottes will be of use in future operations in the area. The test well there was recently abandoned after drilling had reached 3,512 feet.

Mr. Hammond said Royalite had commenced drilling three more wells on proven acreage in the Simmons extension of the Redwater field. Locations for nine more wells will be staked shortly.

The land is that purchased by Royalite in the recent $9,000,000 sale of Crown lands in Alberta. Royalite purchased more than $4,000,000 in Crown lands.

Candidate Named

TORONTO (CP)—Ruth Radford, 26-year-old political science graduate and veteran of the women's division of the Royal Canadian Navy, was chosen Monday night as Liberal candidate in the federal by-election in Toronto-Broadview. A date has not yet been fixed for the by-election to fill the seat made vacant by death of Thomas L. Church, Progressive Conservative. Miss Radford ran second to Mr. Church in the federal election of June 27, 1949.

WALLET STOLEN

D. L. Oldfield, of Elk Lake, reported to city police that while his car was parked by the Memorial Hall during the week-end someone stole a wallet from the glove compartment. The wallet contained his driver's license and pink slip.

Hold Last Rites For Joseph Haig

Last rites for Joseph Haig, well-known city restaurant who died at his home, 3386 Connon Lane last Saturday after a short illness, were held Monday at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel.

He is survived by two sons, Sam in Edmonton, and Ralph in Calgary and three daughters, Mrs. James Roberts, Mrs. W. Wilson and Miss Norma Haig, all of Vancouver.

The late Mr. Haig was proprietor of Cameron's Coffee Caveron, Trounce Alley.

G.M.C. Profits, Sales Set Record

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corporation Monday reported a record net income of $656,434,232 in 1949, equivalent to $14.64 a share of common stock.

This compared with net income of $440,447,724 or $9.72 a share in 1948, the previous high.

In the annual report to General Motors' 434,000 stockholders, C. E. Wilson, president, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board, said total sales also reached an all-time high of $5,700,835,141. This compared with $4,701,770,340 the previous year.

Authors Place Emphasis On Canadian Literature

Canadian authors wish to be judged according to merit. This fact was stressed by Mrs. W. H. Yardley, president of the Vancouver Island branch, Canadian Authors' Association, in her report to members at the annual meeting.

Despite the many difficulties still encountered, she said, all that our writers ask is a reasonably equitable opportunity to present their work to the reading public.

All reports showed an increasing number of sales by the members. Mrs. Breach explained that due to the enlarged attendance at the meetings of the prose group, this has now been divided into two sections, fiction and non-fiction.

STUDY JUVENILE WRITING

The latter group, convened by Mrs. Freda Davies, will study also the writing of juveniles' stories with a view to providing more desirable literature for children.

To encourage the steadily increasing interest in Canadian literature, it was decided to set up a subcommittee to make plans for extending the work of Book Week throughout a greater part of the year.

A craft talk by Mrs. Freda Davies stressed the importance of a good grounding in writing technique. She suggested as desirable qualities in most forms of writing, clarity, consistency, brevity, force and beauty.

Readings from the works of Tennyson and Browning featured an interesting address by James Morton, in which he compared the relative merit of various poems.

While he conceded the worth of many of Browning's works, the speaker considered Tennyson's poems generally superior in power and inspiration.

Oppose Plan To Build More Nursing Homes

Saanich Council Monday night voted not to endorse the resolution from the Royal Jubilee Hospital board of directors urging municipal councils to encourage building of private nursing homes so that elderly people requiring nursing care would not take up hospital space.

Reeve J. W. Casey, however, saw the potential danger of the council being put in a position to foot a heavy bill from this.

"In hospital these people are covered by hospital insurance. Take them out of there and into private nursing homes and we may get the brunt of it," he said.

Councillor L. H. Passmore endorsed the reeve's sentiments. Council members believe the solution was to create more room in hospitals so that all who needed attention could get it.

'MAGIC IN MUSIC'

Concert Proves Truth Of Symphony Slogan

AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON PROGRAM

I. Overture to William Tell Rossini
II. Symphony No. 88 in G Major Haydn
III. Suite for Strings, Woodwinds and Percussion
IV. Night Soliloquy for Flute Solo and Strings
V. Capriccio Italian Tchaikowski
VI. Capriccio Italian Tchaikowski

"There's magic in music" has been the rallying-cry for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra's ninth subscription season, which concluded Monday night before a near-capacity audience in the Royal Theatre.

It is a truth that none will deny, but the sixth concert proved also, more conclusively than ever, that there is a "magic" in the musical leadership of Hans Gruber. It is a joy to watch his conducting for it has the beauty of economy and a clarity of thought and execution that is mirrored by the orchestra's greatly increased responsiveness and discipline.

The program was especially effective in revealing the strength—as well as an occasional weakness—in various sections of the orchestra. The lovely warm and mellow violoncellos, with Mary Hammond playing solo passages, highlighted the opening Overture and the Largo movement in the symphony.

BRASSES, WOODWINDS GOOD

Brilliant brass—which shows considerable individual virtuosity despite some faulty intonation—marked the "William Tell" finale. Woodwinds and strings were sensitive and finely balanced in the Purcell-Barbier Suite which was performed with minutely-controlled dynamics and distinctive fluctuations of mood and style.

The violin choir, as a matter of fact, appears to have made considerable advance since the last concert. There was a grace and polish, a rounding of tone and absence of stridency last night, that has never been achieved previously. We are happy to note that Tom Gardiner, the newly appointed concert master, making his debut on this occasion, is assured of such excellent support in his own section.

Maurice Crawford, flautist, who has been in solo passages at past concerts, was featured in "Night Soliloquy." The tone-painting, though gentle and brief, explored every possibility of the virtuosic flautist. Mr. Gruber pointed out before repeating the number. Mr. Crawford's skill and artistry brought out all the beauty of the composition with fluent ease. There was a muted accompaniment of strings and some subtle chords from the piano, played by Graham Steed.

FINE FINISH

The final Tchaikowski was at the same time brilliant, and one of the most satisfying performances the orchestra has yet given us. Such a concert is a splendid augury for next year's 10th anniversary season which may see the orchestra operating on a fully professional basis.

Mayhew Suggests Trade By Barter

Would Swap Canadian Goods For Those From Dollarless Nations

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister Mayhew indicated in the Commons Monday he believes at least a partial solution to Canada's trade problems may be found through barter deals with non-dollar countries.

Mr. Mayhew suggested that a national export-import corporation be established to barter mixed Canadian merchandise for mixed imports from non-dollar countries.

It was clear, he said during continued debate on the Speech from the Throne, that a solution to Canada's trading problems could not be found "either by attaching ourselves to the dollar or the sterling-currency areas." The problem was one of an exchange of commodities rather than a financial one.

UNIQUE POSITION

Canada's export position was unique. Generally, she had developed sufficient balances with overseas countries to pay for her dollar deficit with the United States. The problem was the same, but it had changed in character in recent years.

Overseas markets still continued for certain raw materials, such as wheat, flour, tobacco, fish, cheese, eggs and bacon, and for manufactured goods, such as automotive, textiles, rubber, machinery and chemicals.

He stressed that the suggestion was "purely my own" and that he was in no way speaking for the government.

This was his plan, as outlined in the lingering Throne Speech debate.

1. The first operations of the proposed corporation should be with countries which now take few Canadian goods.

2. It should involve a "combination between the very large groups of manufacturers and wholesalers and the government to provide both the management and the finance to operate bilateral deals and to overcome the lack of facilities that faces any single corporation.

3. The corporation could "barter parcels of mixed Canadian merchandise for mixed imports from the non-dollar countries." The Canadian merchandise bartered could include capital equipment as well as foodstuffs or raw material.

At the House opening, Veterans' Minister Gregg announced that war veterans will be entitled to become patients in veterans' department hospitals after April 1 provided there is room for them and they can pay for their care as they would in a civilian hospital.

BUDGET SOON

Finance Minister Abbott said the budget will be brought down, as early as possible, but he was not in a position to give the date.

Trade Minister Howe said Canadian representatives at a wheat conference in London have been instructed to "favor" the accession of Germany and Japan

Re-elected To Board

R. Logan Mayhew, president of the Queen Alexandra Solarium board of directors, was re-elected Monday to serve another three years on the hospital's executive board.

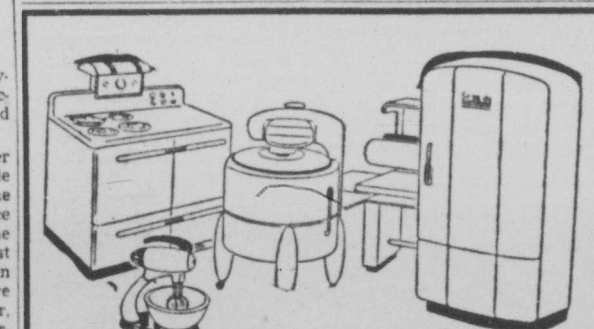

His was the only name submitted for the one term open this year.

Directors at their next meeting will consider reducing the number of board seats.

VANCOUVER LED BIG CITIES IN JANUARY COST-OF-LIVING RISE

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight selected cities showed rises in the cost-of-living index in January, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

Main factor in the rise was higher food prices for beef, lamb, eggs, oranges, coffee and sugar.

January's biggest regional boost was in Vancouver where the index climbed 1.5 points from 161.9 to 163.4. Smallest was in Montreal where the index rose from 163.8 to 164.2.

The index is calculated on the basis that August, 1939, prices equal 100. The index standing at Feb. 1, with Jan. 3 standings in brackets:

Halifax, 153.3 (152.7); Saint John, 157.8 (157.1); Montreal, 164.2 (163.8); Toronto, 157.6 (156.9); Winnipeg, 156.3 (155.0); Saskatoon, 163.6 (162.2); Edmonton, 158.1 (156.9); Vancouver, 163.4 (161.9).

These regional standings compare with the general cross-country standing of 161.6 in January.

Uphill Calls For Action To Abolish Means Test

The veteran Fernie Labor member, Thomas Uphill, suggested in the Legislature Monday now was the time for the provincial government to take a stand with national government authorities on abolishment of the means test and other reforms in old age pension laws.

He pointed out a joint committee of the Senate and the House of Commons had been named to study all phases of old age security to bring about a better retirement system for Canadians.

Many members called for immediate removal of the means test, said Mr. Uphill, "and I would think this was an opportune time for this government to inform the committee it is in favor of reforms, such as the abolition of the means test."

The Fernie member, only Labor member in the B.C. House, said the age limit for old age pensions should be lowered, too. Of 462 pension applicants turned down in 1949, only 130 had incomes larger than the regulations calls for, Mr. Uphill said.

"Considering the small number rejected and the extraordinary work involved in investigation, very little is saved by retaining the means test," the member stated.

Wheel-Chair Wedding Ceremony

New York Bets $50,000 On Test Of Rainmaking

NEW YORK (UP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer planned today to risk $50,000 on scientific rain-making experiment to end a year-long drought in the nation's big-city.

He said he wanted to supply a team of meteorological experts with airplanes, radar and cloud-seeding apparatus immediately in hope of filling half-empty reservoirs before heavy summer consumption begins.

If the scheme works out, the threat of weekly water holidays and other conservation measures would be ended for New Yorkers who have been asked to skip baths and shave at least once a week since December.

O'Dwyer will ask the city board of estimates to appropriate the needed funds this afternoon. The $50,000 will finance the first six months of what he expects will be a year-long experiment.

"If we succeed in making rain," O'Dwyer said, "it might well be the experiment that will set a standard in solving water problems in many parts of the world."

O'Dwyer visualized ultimate conversion of deserts into fertile crop lands and an end to damaging droughts.

The plan has two purposes. Primarily it is aimed at forcing clouds over the city's upstate watershed area to loose their water, filling the city's reservoirs which sank to critical levels last fall through rising consumption and a prolonged period of scanty rainfall.

The second aim is to give scientists knowledge of how best to induce and control artificial rain or snow.

All known means for milking rains from clouds will be used. Airplanes flying over and through clouds will sow quantities of dry ice. Ground containers will cast silver iodide upward toward the cloud bottoms.

THE WEATHER

Weather forecast for Victoria—Cloudy today and Wednesday with occasional light rain today; continuous rain commencing Wednesday evening. Light winds. Increasing to southeast, 15 m.p.h. Wednesday afternoon; little change in temperature. Low tonight, 38; high Wednesday, 48.

B.C. Farmers Urge Duty On Turkey Eggs

NEW WESTMINSTER (BUP)—Canadian breeders sought federal intervention today to prevent United States firms dumping turkey eggs in Canada.

Turkey raisers in the Fraser Valley area said they smelled a threat to their otherwise thriving industry in the gentle but wholesale dumping of U.S. gobblers' efforts.

Provincial government authorities said they were investigating reports of widespread dumping. Gordon Landon, provincial poultry commissioner, said his office had been deluged with complaints from B.C. breeders who feared admission into Canada of the American eggs would cut deeply into their earnings.

Landon said that if the reports were substantiated he would ask federal authorities to impose a duty on eggs to prevent Canadian breeders going broke.

Reports Of Purge Among Czech Reds

Clementis Quits Cabinet Post And May Be Brought To Trial

PRAGUE (CP)—Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis of Czechoslovakia has resigned. Deputy Premier Viliam Siroky has been named as his successor.

Convicted Spy Judith Coplon Raising Bail

NEW YORK (UP)—Judith Coplon expects to go free on $40,000 bail today, but Valentin Gubitchev, her convicted partner in espionage conspiracy, will sit in jail for his few remaining days in the United States.

Attorneys for the twice-convicted Miss Coplon need to raise an additional $20,000 to meet the $40,000 bail set Monday by Federal Judge Thomas W. Sawn pending her appeal from a 15-year prison sentence.

Only $20,000 was needed because the other half already was available from the $20,000 bail on which she was free during her trial with the Russian engineer. She also has furnished $20,000 covering her previous conviction in Washington where another appeal is pending.

Abraham Pomerantz, Gubitchev's attorney, will withdraw the Soviet diplomat's appeal from his conviction today, clearing the way of legal obstacles blocking an order sending him back to Russia.

Withdrawal of the appeal means that Gubitchev must remain in a cell at the federal detention quarters until he is placed aboard the Polish liner Batory next Monday.

Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan ordered the pint-sized Russian to appear before him Monday morning when he will suspend the prison sentence. Then guards will place him aboard a government cutter which will meet the out-bound liner at the mouth of New York Harbor where he will be transferred for the ocean voyage.

The official announcement today gave no reason for the resignation of Clementis, a Communist journalist and lawyer who succeeded the late Jan Masaryk as Foreign Minister in March, 1948.

(The resignation came on the heels of reports that a wholesale purge is imminent in the ranks of the Czech Communist Party on charges of Titoism. It gave rise to speculation that Clementis would be brought to trial on charges that he had not been faithful to the brand of Communism demanded by Russia as opposed to the "independent" Communism of Premier Tito of Yugoslavia.)

The official Czech news agency said Clementis' resignation had been accepted by President Klement Gottwald on the recommendation of Premier Antonin Zapotocky. Gottwald was premier two years ago when he appointed Clementis.

An official communique said that Clementis had personally handed Zapotocky his resignation and Zapotocky had recommended that President Klement Gottwald accept it.

PLAN ACCEPTED

The communique said the premier at the same time recommended to the president that Siroky be put in charge of the foreign ministry and that the president had accepted this recommendation.

Rumors that Clementis had fallen into disfavor with the Communist leaders because of "deviationism" started last November when he was at the United Nations Assembly meeting at Lake Success as leader of the Czech delegation.

The stories were prompted by arrest of many of his staff in Prague during a purge of Czech Communists last year. Clementis denied the reports.

HORSEMEAT SOLD ON SLY TO 2 SEATTLE BUTCHERS

SEATTLE (AP)—A horsemeat dealer testified at his divorce hearing that he had sold several hundred pounds of horsemeat a week to two Seattle butchers for more than two years.

Lewis A. Butchart, operator of the Montana Horsemeat Co. in a Seattle public market, said the butchers bought between 150 and 200 pounds each a week during 1947 and 1948.

He said he would leave the meat in his parked car. The two buyers would pick it up there and leave cash payments in an appointed hiding place.

There was no indication what was done with the meat, but two city health department officials sat through the superior court hearing Monday "to get all available evidence before deciding what to do." A city ordinance forbids sale of horsemeat where other meat is handled.

Butchart's testimony resulted from questioning by his wife's attorney in an effort to prove her contention that he had withheld unreported income from community funds.

Butchart denied the contention and has filed a cross-complaint asking that he be granted a divorce.

20 German Reds In Jail After Fight With Police

Survivors Of Crash Testify

LLANDOW, Wales (UP)—Civil Air Ministry investigators talked today with two of the three survivors of the plane crash Sunday in which 80 men and women were killed.

Gwynne Anthony, 26, and Handel Rogers, 33, escaped with only shock and bruises. They were seated in the extreme rear of the four-engine Tudor V when it plunged into a Welsh field.

The other survivor, Melville Thomas, 23, was still in a dangerous condition.

Royal Air Force men cordoned the field while experts went over the wreckage.

Views on the Victoria Real Estate Board's interim agreement form will be presented by H. W. Davey, K.C., at a meeting of the board in the Empress Hotel Wednesday noon.

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—Twenty Communist demonstrators were arrested today after an hour-long clash between police and a crowd of nearly 1,000 Communists.

The melee started when the crowd, including Communist youth members and several women, gathered to prevent a British officer from entering the plant of outlawed Communist newspaper Volksstimme.

The Communists gathered in front of the printing plant shortly after a British high court had sentenced two of the paper's eight editors to prison terms of a year and 18 months respectively for publishing stories endangering security of the western allies.

Two of the editors had been acquitted and four will be retried at a later date. The British officer, Col. Walter Witham, went to the plant with a court order authorizing him to impound the property.

NO MAN-EATING WOLVES

Last Two Tall Yarns Of Attacks Doubtful

TIMAGAMI, Ont. (CP)—Two forestry experts today threw cold water on recent stories of attacks by wolves on two human beings. They said the stories couldn't be proved, thereby bolstering a long-standing contention that wolves will not attack humans.

But that old saying of Jim Curran, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, that says he has been et by a wolf is a liar, looked considerably shaken for a time.

One report was that a young lumber worker was attacked by two wolves a few miles south of here. His clothing was torn before he was rescued. Another report said the frail mother of two children was attacked by wolves five miles north of McKerrow, near Sudbury.

Burly Paul Hoffman, chief forest ranger in this town 50 miles north of North Bay, said the report of the attack on the lumber worker "was so unusual we investigated at once. We discovered that the unfortunate young man who was... subject to fits. He had one of these on the trail."

"A number of workers came upon him in a dishevelled condition just after he had recovered. Somehow the story started that he had been attacked by wolves."

But examination of the scene showed no animals had been within half a mile. Hoffman added. The young man himself could not recall what had happened.

The other report was disputed by Charles Bibby, chief game overseer of the Sudbury district. This story was that a woman weighing only 100 pounds, had fought off wolf attacks with a sleigh on which she had been hauling groceries.

Bibby said "It's a thousand-to-one that the animals were dogs." He pointed out the incident occurred in darkness, making it difficult to identify the animals.

Bibby declared flatly: "There hasn't been an authenticated case yet where wolves have attacked a human."

With Joe Stalin's Blessing?

THERE IS AN ORGANIZATION IN Toronto known as the Canadian Peace Congress. Its officers are obviously annoyed because the Rev. Hewlett Johnson (known as the "Red Dean" of Canterbury) has failed to obtain permission to visit the United States to take part in another of those convalescent camps to that particular type of universal peace which would conform to the gospel according to Premier Stalin.

Newspapers across the Dominion, of course, have received the "Immediate Press Release" over the signature of "Mary Jennison, Executive Secretary, Canadian Peace Congress," which tells all and sundry that United States Ambassador Lawrence Steinhardt at Ottawa is being pressed to use his influence for the admission of the United States of such "disciples of peace" as the "Red Dean" of Canterbury. Here is the exact text of the "Jennison" telegram to His Excellency:

Ask you forward to U.S. State Department fervent protest Canadian Peace Congress at refusal of visas to world peace delegation. Lay peace proposals before U.S. Congress. Canada's Dr. Endicott already part of delegation to Soviet Union and other delegations bound for France, Italy, Belgium, Holland. Delegations carry sentiments Canadians too and we demand State Department allow congressmen, senators know these sentiments. If U.S. Government barricades itself against world opinion disaster certain. Appeal to finest traditions of U.S. democracy and will of big majority of Americans for peace. This is acid test free exchange opinion and who wants war.

Canada's able and much-travelled Minister of External Affairs, Lester B. Pearson also has received a copy of the foregoing telegram. Knowing him for the realist he is, of course, it requires little or no imagination on our part to compress into a couple of sentences what his reaction was to the "Jennison" appeal. Far be it from us, however, to imply that some of the trusting souls who belong to the Canadian Peace Congress believe that an arms reduction program is not feasible, or that all sensible individuals would give almost everything they possess if they could be assured that never again would nations go mad and end what is left of our much-vaunted civilization; but what is the company they keep?

There is nothing flippant in this inquiry. Inherent in it is the fact—according to the organization's literature—that some of the "delegates" on whose behalf the "Jennison" appeal has gone out would seem to us to have little or no knowledge of the sinister political and economic skulduggery which has produced the "cold war" between the East and the West. We may be wrong in this assumption. Names in the delegation hoping to duplicate the exhibition staged in New York's Park Avenue Hotel Waldorf-Astoria last year, however, suggest to us a meeting of the "clans" according to Stalin's peace gospel.

Among those names, for instance, we notice Pablo Picasso, described as "artist." Not being an admirer of his type of artistry—since we are a more newspaperman—our concept of what he could contribute toward the establishment of an enduring peace would be wholly conjectural. And there is the Swiss painter, Herr Hans Erni, the British film producer Ivor Montagu, Italian Socialist Deputy Cacciatori, Soviet physicist Max Cosnyx. These are the people who—with 600,000,000 others allegedly affiliated with the World Peace Congress dedicated to the business of brooking "no balking at peace from their elected representatives"—are set forth by Mary Jennison. As we have said before, the world laughed at Adolf Hitler—this newspaper took him seriously—and there are those misguided fools who seem to think that the man who rules the roost at the Kremlin is just a good-humored bluffer. Beware of the fellow-travelling architects of peace on designs of the Picasso perspective!

If We Don't Pay Them, Someone Will

PUBLIC WORKS MINISTER E. C. Carson pulled no punches when he told the Provincial Legislature why his department's chief engineer and chairman of the Highway Board, Mr. Harry C. Anderson, had left the service. The minister put it bluntly:

"Once again we are losing a valued civil servant because of a lack of understanding on the part of the public that in order to retain men of outstanding ability we must be prepared to reward them according to their work."

Mr. Anderson's decision to leave the government department and to accept a more lucrative position elsewhere is no new story. It is just another incident in the discouraging chapter of provincial and Dominion history in which reward for merit has been prevented by an unwillingness to meet the competitive bids of private companies and interests in the United States. Many more instances could be cited.

It is time the people of British Columbia are awakened to the fact that they need the best brains they can acquire for the important job of handling the technical and other tasks of developing this province. Anything less than the best can be extremely expensive. On a basis of economy, it pays to spend more in salary on a man who does a good job than less on one who has not the capacities to do the work that must be done.

British Columbia and Canada retain in their various services many individuals who are underpaid as far as salaries are concerned. A number of them choose to remain with provincial or federal services because they feel they are making positive contributions to their country. There is some satisfaction in that attitude. But the person who is moved by that spirit should not suffer financially.

In brains, as in other commodities, the public usually gets what it pays for. At this stage of our development, we cannot afford to be niggardly.

This Was No Prank

IF AS THE NEWS ITEM SUGGESTED, young boys were responsible for stealing several crates of eggs from the trucks of a local concern and smashing them against a wall in a parking lot, the only suitable punishment, if police trace down the culprits, is a good spanking in public. This type of behavior is beyond the bounds of mischief. It demands stern action—and if, and when these young hoodlums are apprehended, it is to be hoped they will be dealt with accordingly. These flagrant acts of wanton destruction are increasing to such an extent as to cause the average citizen to lose patience with any attempt to "coddle" the culprits. So we shall watch the outcome of this specific case. If it comes to court, with particular attention. Apart, of course, from the wanton destruction of good food is the utter stupidity of what some people still persist in describing as a prank. This is no boyish prank. In other words, let there be no stupid sentimentalism, no outcry of "sadism!"

We repeat the argument that "young boys" old enough to know that it is wrong to steal eggs from a delivery truck and smash them against a wall should get a well-deserved "licking." A few treatments of this kind would take some of the so-called fun out of their mischievous activities.

Some Bits And Pieces

The modern typewriter has been greatly improved, but it is still capable of turning out the old misspelled words.

Old Dobbin had his faults, but hitchhikers didn't beat up the driver and then steal his buggy.

A small town is one where all able bodied young men are members of the volunteer fire department.

The depression was that period when it wasn't worth a dog's effort to turn over the garbage can at 2 a.m.

Rip Van Winkle couldn't sleep for 20 years nowadays. He would be worried too much about that superbomb.

In these rat eradication campaigns, it's hard to get rid of the kind who sell top secrets to other governments.

Discrimination In Sales Tax Brings Neighborly Criticism

FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES

FREEDOM of the press no less than any other sort of freedom is indivisible. Thus discrimination against the press gives cause for concern even when it takes place in the freest and most democratic of countries. These thoughts prompt us to comment on an odd situation existing north of the border in a land bound to our own by the closest ties of sentiment and outlook.

For years an eight percent sales tax has been imposed by Canada on goods manufactured and used in Canada, including newspaper. If this levy were applied to all Canadian users of printing paper without exception it would certainly be a purely internal question not subject to comment by outsiders. However, the tax is applied neither to newspaper exported to the United States nor to newspaper (and ink) used in Canada for publications that appear regularly but do not contain up-to-the-minute news. Comic and fiction magazines and feature weeklies printed in Canada are exempt, while paper used for Canadian newspapers and weeklies containing spot news is taxable. The purpose of the exemption is to place Canadian magazines in a more competitive position vis-a-vis American magazines. But the unfortunate effect is that dispensers of fiction and entertainment via the printed word are granted a tax advantage denied to purveyors of news, who in a world that needs as much information as possible are thereby penalized.

The law may have been innocently conceived, but it does discriminate against the Canadian newspaper press as such in favor of other types of Canadian and American publications which are directly competitive in the advertising field and also in favor of such American newspapers and news magazines as may be directly competitive in the news field. Discrimination is discrimination; we are against it anywhere and everywhere no matter how slight or how unintentional it may be.

Visit To 1984

By JOSEPH ALSOP, From Frankfurt

THIS reporter has just returned from a three-day trip to the Soviet zone of Germany, made possible by the brief annual parting of the iron curtain for the Leipzig Fair. Only the most general impressions could be formed on such a journey. Yet these impressions were intense, almost terrifyingly, vivid. They were strongly shared by the three other newspapermen, all exceedingly able, who made up the party. Perhaps, then, these impressions are worth setting down.

One central fact springs to the eye in the Soviet zone of Germany. What has been organized here is not merely another slave society; what has been organized here is a slave society on precisely the same level as the Russian society.

IT CANNOT have been easy to drag eastern Germany down to the Russian level. This is a rich agricultural area with a strong balancing industry. Far more than western Germany, where the recovery has been so astonishing, the east zone had the power of rapid post-war reconstruction. By now, this fortunate region should be all fat fields, smiling villages, cosy small towns, and bustling prosperous cities.

A kind of postwar recovery has undoubtedly occurred. The fields are tilled with horticultural minuteness. The mines are being worked. Industry is turning over after a fashion. Yet these facts do not alter the other, almost more important reality, which is grimly visible in the ruined, leprous surfaces of every building, in the lined, unsmiling faces of the people, even in the universal, exhausted stoop of the housewives endlessly trudging the muddy streets in search of the bare necessities of life.

AT EVERY TURN, by every detail, in every conversation, one is irresistibly reminded of George Orwell's brilliantly perceptive novel, "Nineteen Eighty-Four." And this is natural. "Nineteen Eighty-Four" was the classical description of a slave society. And east Germany is like nothing so much as a great slave-operated estate, whose wealth is being channelled off for the greater glory of the owners—the Politburo in the Kremlin.

The rules for business-like slave-owners, originally laid down by Marcus Porcius Cato two millennia ago, are observed with great exactness. On the other hand, the slaves are kept in good working condition but below the standard of rebelliousness. The average worker receives the equivalent, in real money, of $10.00 per month. With the ration that is provided, this is enough to give him an adequate diet of black bread, potatoes and cabbage. Thus he can work.

AS FOR GOOD shoes and decent clothing, soap and hot water, warmth at home and pleasure abroad, these luxuries are not for slaves. The workers' pleasure consists in an occasional glass of peculiarly nasty beer consumed in a Bierstube where the propaganda radio endlessly blares. The privileges are for what Orwell called the inner and outer party members.

The petty functionaries and officials of the outer party are rather cheaply bought. Their price is a few extra marks a month to spend on the dreary delicatessen and shoddy clothes that are sold by the Handels organization. This is the government monopoly black market, where prices are ten times the price of the ration. Here you see women queuing up eagerly to buy a tea-spoonful of slightly rancid cooking oil for nearly half a workman's daily wage.

FINALLY, the members of the inner party, the industrial managers, the Stakhanovites of industry here called Aktivisten, may enjoy the luxury of a less than sub-human life. You see them proudly enjoying their splendid position in the Intourist restaurants, where the food is at least plentiful, the prices are downright fantastic, and vodka expensively substitutes for the victory gin of Orwell's imagination. Yet even here, the power of the state casts its heavy shadow. Laughter is an act almost as conspicuous as would be standing on your head in the Colony Restaurant.

One wonders, at first, why the Soviets have chosen to reduce this rich province of their empire to so fearful a condition. But the answer to this puzzle is only too obvious. The dangers of comparison; the necessity of equality; the character of the Soviet administrative machine; the established methods of slaves to submissiveness; the ruthless requirements of rearmament—all these factors must have worked resistlessly together to produce the result that one sees in east Germany.

ONE WONDERS also why this state of affairs is tolerated. Among the members of the inner party you may encounter an occasional hot-eyed religionist; our group did so when we were briefly detained for questioning by the secret police. The poor creatures of the outer party are mute and fearful. But from the mass of the people, from nine-tenths of the men and women you encounter, the bitterness, the misery, the rags burst forth automatically, without stimulus, in the first three minutes of conversation.

Then, if one has had that valuable experience, one remembers the internment camp, with its omnipresent, unchallengeable guards. One recalls the slow sapping of the will, the gradual lowering of all standards, the increasing acceptance of the prison life as the order of nature. From a slave state, as from a prison camp, there is no real escape for the broad mass of inmates. The few may flee. But for the vast majority there is only rescue, which may never come.

THE "MOUNTIES" AND B.C.

The proposed extension of the powers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to this province is surely a policy to be commended on the grounds of increased national security—apart from any other consideration.

At a time when the international activities of the world enemy, Communism, as becoming every day more audacious it is in the obvious interest of every country to strengthen the forces of law and security so that Communist and fellow-traveler-troublemakers can be dealt with in an efficient manner.

The extension of federal police powers to this province will definitely increase the ability of the government to keep these subversive forces under control.

It is difficult to understand the short-sighted view of those who profess to oppose this move on the ostensible grounds of local politics. The defence of this country against Communism is many times more urgently necessary than the retention of any personal power or influence by officials of the police or any other authority.

I wish to state that on May 24, 1894, I worked on a brick building on Johnson St. for Henry Saunders. That morning of May 24, about 10 a.m., it started to snow; it came on so heavy we got under the scaffold. It kept on for three hours. No more work for us that day! FRED TATHAM, 836 Vernon Ave.

ALCOHOL AND GASOLINE

"A great injustice has been done the Victoria police force as a whole by the precipitate public utterances of Dr. E. L. McNiven. In what the doctor said before the police commission there was an irresistible inference that certain members of the force would "color" their evidence or refuse to give evidence at all merely because of some degree of friction between police divisions.

I suggest that the police commission could better enquire into why the police doctor has on several different occasions given evidence that drivers were intoxicated while others doctors have sworn that in their opinion the same man was not intoxicated. Police court charges of this nature are undoubtedly laid on the basis of the police doctor's report and these should therefore be in the highest degree accurate and fair.

For example, take the recent case of a real estate agent who suffered the expense and embarrassment of two trials on a charge of intoxication. Finally, he was acquitted when another doctor gave evidence that his apparent condition was caused by a stomach ailment and not alcohol at all.

Surely in the public interest more care could be exercised in making these examinations.

"HIGHLY PRESUMPTUOUS"

Surely Mr. L. J. Pepper is pushing his obsession too far!

What he believes, or disbelieves, is his own business and I am not in the least interested in it. But when he proceeds to instruct his fellow men on what we ought, or ought not, to consider authoritative, and what we should or should not, teach our children, such gratuitous instruction, which no amount of pseudo-scientific reasoning will excuse, is, to say the least, highly presumptuous.

TOO DEEP FOR US

According to the calculations of William A. Williams, ex-President of Franklin College, the population which started from a single pair 10,000 years ago, increased at the normal rate, and allowing for decimation through wars, pestilence, etc., should be no less than two billion times what it is today.

Quote: "No guess that was ever made, or ever can be made, much in excess of 5,177 years, can possibly stand for the age of man."

I suggest that Mr. Pepper study these figures with an open mind before accepting the guesses that range from ten thousand to millions of years.

FROM FAR AWAY

Your recent editorial "Still Follow The Birds" was very fine. It brought to mind the familiar Biblical passage to the effect that a time is coming when the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, the leopard lie down with the kid, the calf, young lion, and falling together, and a little child shall lead them.

In these days, when the news is so disquieting it is helpful indeed to remember that the 24th chapter of Matthew, the 21st of Luke, and the 13th of Mark, when compared with world events since the outbreak of World War One, show that a great tribulation to be followed by great blessings to mankind is just ahead.

These blessings include a time when there shall be no more death, sorrow, crying or pain.

NO-NAME PEOPLE

New York Times

Among the no-name people are those to be seen, by observers regular in their habits, each day at about the same times and places—on the bus (driven by George, one of the day's half-a-name people, about whom nothing is known beyond his given name and disposition, which is remarkably good), on trains and even in subways, where the odds against seeing the same no-names day in and day out may be high. On the bus there is, perhaps, the man with no name who carried an umbrella every day no matter what the weather, and the fellow with a dreadful cough that suggests he ought to see a doctor, which, apparently, he never does.

At times there springs the temptation to speak to those no-name people to see what they would have to say for themselves; yet one has the feeling that if they were spoken to, tomorrow they would disappear and never pop up again on the bus, $1.10 or "A" train.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press News Analyst

THEY tell us we shouldn't look a gift-horse in the mouth, but that axiom certainly doesn't apply to horse swapping. Moscow is said to be working on an amazing proposal. United States officials, are said by James Reston, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, to believe Russia is making a new effort to arrange a deal with the U.S. to divide the world into spheres of influence.

Under this two-world arrangement, western influence in the satellite states would be minimized or eliminated. The western powers would adopt a hands-off policy for the whole Communist world, including China and Yugoslavia, and do most of their business with the satellites through Moscow.

Red officialdom has been emphasizing "that the worlds of capitalism and communism can live in peace on a non-intervention basis."

Well, that's horse-swapping on an unprecedented scale. We get a better idea of just how big a deal it is when we check up on how much of the world has been brought under Red domination.

Russia, plus its satellites and China, comprise roughly one-third of the globe's population, and about one-fourth of its land area. Some of this, of course, Russia is in process of trying to digest, and China is included in that category. However, those figures don't include the Communist supporters and fifth columnists who are working in non-Communist countries.

Looking the Russian horse in the mouth we get the idea that Moscow has overrun about all the territory it can handle conveniently at this time. The Russians would be glad to see the cold war eased off a bit while they consolidate their gains and get organized for another offensive in due course.

The assertion that "the worlds of capitalism and communism can live in peace on a non-intervention basis" is of course true in theory. Naturally it would work if there were "non-intervention."

However, "non-intervention" is a direct contradiction of a cardinal tenet of communism. None less than Lenin laid it down that communism and capitalism couldn't live in the same world and that capitalism must be destroyed.

Still, while we have to look the horse in the mouth, the situation isn't without hope. State Secretary Dean Acheson indicated that the other day in his call for "total diplomacy" to win the cold war with communism. By this he meant an all-out effort, short of shooting, to halt Russian expansion. Having made the call he added:

"When we have reached unity and determination on the part of the free nations—when we have eliminated all of the areas of weakness—we will be able to evolve working agreements with the Russians."

ENDING THE WAR

Los Angeles Times

Though Britain and France have proposed a declaration that the war with Germany is ended, the United States is balking, say reports from Washington. The state and justice departments are opposed, the reports say, on the ground that such a declaration would automatically repeal some 200 statutes adopted under authority of the war powers clause of the Constitution, including rent control.

In other words, the administration is so greedy for regulative power that it wants to keep the war alive long after its expiration.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"EVERYBODY remembers," said the Elevator Man, "that old remark about 'uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.' But there's a lot of heads without crowns in the same fix. One of them must be the one that belongs to the son of the exiled King of Belgium. It seems to me that the height of uneasiness, next to the head with a crown that is just going to lose it, would be a head without a crown that might be going to get one. And that's the young prince's position right now. Watch the step!"

"The Belgians voted over the weekend whether they wanted the King to come back from Switzerland and take over the throne again. Apparently only a small majority did. But it's a new angle on democracy voting for a king. I wonder what some of the old-time despots would have thought of that. The only decisions about the throne in those days were made by the king—he decided who got thrown into the dungeons. The voice of the people was used only for saying 'Ouch!' when a tax lopped off their livelihoods or an axe lopped off their lovely heads. Going down!"

"But it's all changed now," said the Elevator Man. "For a while there, when things were in a turmoil, it was a toss-up whether a crowned head would end up in a basket or a basket. The scrutineer has a gentler touch than the executioner. As for young Prince Baudoin, if his high school classmates ever voted him the lad most likely to succeed—it looks like he might not have been far wrong."

To Get Better Roses Prune Properly Now

JACK G. BEASTALL

The middle of March is considered about the right time to prune rose bushes in this locality. Pruning is necessary if you wish to keep your bushes within bounds and have strong shoots which will bear good blooms.

Every cut has its purpose although the finished job appeals to the beginner. Many are afraid to tackle the job, but if you can grasp the fundamental principles, the rest is fairly simple.

The reason for pruning roses is to remove weak end unwanted growth and direct the energy of the plant into a few strong branches.

All dead, weak, and unripe shoots should be removed at their base, and the centre of the bush thinned out to allow room for the new growth. The three or four remaining branches are cut to a bud which points outwards, thus keeping the centre of the bush open.

USE SHARP TOOL

All cuts are made on a slant with the high point just above the bud. Never prune with a dull tool, or one which tears the tissue. The exhibitor will cut out at about the third bud above ground level. This results in few, but perfect, blooms. For garden display leave from 8 to 18 inches of top growth.

The severe winter has killed many bushes to the snow line. This dead wood must be removed, cutting well back into live tissue. It may appear drastic but local rosarians predict that Victoria will have some of its finest roses this year because of this hard pruning.

WATCH DEMONSTRATIONS

The best way to learn rose pruning is to watch an expert do it. Therefore I recommend that you attend one or both of the rose pruning demonstrations being sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society this week. Both start at 2 p.m., the first being at Beacon Hill Rose Garden tomorrow, and the other at the Oak Bay Rose Garden, Windsor Park, on Saturday.

Alberta Wants More Revenue

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta may ask the federal government for more money in exchange for the province's taxes on personal income, corporation income and succession duties.

Premier Manning indicated in the Legislature that when the Dominion-Provincial tax agreement expires in 1952, Alberta may not negotiate another unless "we are getting considerably more" from the three tax fields.

Mr. Manning, speaking during the budget debate, said that so much money from the three tax fields was going into the federal treasury, Alberta "must very seriously consider leaving them" in the hands of Ottawa.

May Revise Water Rates To Overcome Inequalities

A revision of water rates may be in the offing for Saanich residents.

After hearing Councilor L. H. Passmore stress the inequality of the present rate system, Council Monday night unanimously endorsed a resolution to hire an auditor to fix a price on water that will be satisfactory to all in the water district.

"Under the present paying plan the urban areas are paying the money and making the profits for the waterworks department, while the outside areas are using most of the water and paying two-thirds less than our bills."

British trade officials say production in 1952 must be at least 10 per cent higher than in 1947 if Britain is to pay her own way.

Douk Outbreaks Classed As 'Civil Insurrection'

Participation By Ottawa Welcomed By Attorney-General Wismer

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said in the Legislature Monday Doukhobor lawlessness in the Kootenays amounted to "civil insurrection."

He was replying to a question from Randolph Harding, C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan, during opening discussion of estimates following adjournment of debate on the Budget Speech.

Mr. Harding wanted to know what progress was being made in a study of the Doukhobor problem by a commission comprising Col. F. J. Meade, retired deputy commissioner of the R.C.M.P., and John Shirras, retired commissioner of the B.C. police.

Mr. Wismer said the commission had not reached a final conclusion but it was hoped before long to have a long-range plan to cope with the question which would be acceptable to the federal government as well as the provincial government.

The Attorney-General said it had been suggested at one time that the laws be enforced rigidly against the Doukhobors, but this was not the solution. It would result in another "Piers Island episode" in which hundreds of Doukhobors would be arrested.

Participation of the federal government in the matter was required, he continued, stating the appointment of Col. Meade as federal representative on the commission now investigating the question, was a step in the right direction.

"The federal government, after all, was responsible for bringing the Doukhobors to Canada," Mr. Wismer said.

Mr. Harding asked if idle lands of the Doukhobors would be opened to settlement by non-Doukhobors. He thought the government should bring in a

Christianity Seen As Large Part Of Every Day's Business Activities

EDITED BY NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

J. C. Penney, whose stores dot the United States, is a business man who believes that Christianity is the important part of every day's activity. He believes that faith works in human affairs and has demonstrated this belief countless times.

By J. C. PENNEY

One of our store managers wrote me recently that these times tend to fill everyone with pessimism. That should not be. We should recognize our times for what they are: periods of tribulation but not of pessimism. They should inspire us to re-examine our faiths and to re-establish our convictions more firmly.

As long as we have any faith at all in God, we must know that He is all-powerful, that justice and right are His will for the world and that eventually His purpose will be established here on earth. Good emerges slowly, but we must not doubt its final outcome.

And just as with individuals, so as a nation will our fate be determined by our choice of the hard right, instead of the easy wrong. America was founded in prayer, in faith and in the heroic spirit of sacrifice. Comfortable living in easy-going years tends to soften us, and both our spiritual and our physical muscles become flabby.

Times like the present are testing periods. The harder they become, the more determined we should be not to be infected by doubts and fears which bedevil the world.

J. C. Penney

The present state of the world, and of people in it, does not shake my faith in the ultimate triumph of freedom and justice, for I was reared by parents whose faith in God and whose belief that right will triumph are too deeply ingrained in me to cause me to doubt.

From a worldly standpoint, my parents were humble folk. My father was old-school Baptist minister who preached the better part of his lifetime and never took one penny of remuneration for it. He earned his living as a farmer. Though brought up very strictly, I have always been thankful that my parents were God-fearing, for I learned early to honor and obey them—and to work.

If I could get a message over to the youth of this country, it would be that success in life does not depend on genius. Any young man of ordinary intelligence, who is morally sound, above board in his dealings, and not afraid of work, should succeed in spite of obstacles and handicaps, if he plays the game fairly and squarely and keeps everlastingly at it. The possibilities before one are measured by the determination which is within one.

For many years I selected personally our store managers. After I had satisfied myself about a prospect's character and qualifications, I inquired about his home life.

If I did not believe that his wife measured up, I did not employ the man. If I found that his wife was a true helpmate, I felt that he would succeed, other things being equal, for a good woman's power to encourage is well-nigh unlimited.

In 1910, the mother of my two oldest sons died after a brief illness. The shock was so sudden and severe that it nearly overwhelmed me. Although I never drank liquor ever moderately, I had an intense desire to drink. The reason was doubtless the unconscious desire of drowning sorrow, yet also instinctively I knew that I must not yield; that if ever the desire got one foot within the door it would come in bodily and I would go down.

The craving lasted not only for months but for years. Many a night I walked the streets, battling with grief and temptation that had fastened upon me.

This was the most critical time of my life, but the memory of my father's faith buoyed me up.

After that experience my interest was no longer one of dollars and cents. Instead, it was an interest in the welfare and advancement of our men so that they might take their rightful places in society. I realized that money—necessary as it is—should be a means to a worthy aim and not the end in itself. Up to this time I had been in poor health, but along with my change of thought—the result of a spiritual awakening—I began to develop a sterner body.

At one time during my business career I broke down, both nervously and physically, and went to a sanitarium. One night while there I had an overwhelming conviction that this was my last night of life. So sure was I that my time had come that I got up and wrote farewell letters to my family.

The next morning, however, I passed a parlor in the sanitarium and heard singing. A few people were gathered in a religious meeting. I felt the urge to enter. In great weariness of spirit I listened to the hymns, to the Scripture reading and to the prayers.

Then, a profound sense of inner release came over me. A heavy weight seemed lifted from my spirit. I was amazed at my change and in the days that followed I regained mental and bodily health. Perhaps the feeling of death that night was a symptom of a new man being born in me.

TOMORROW—When he was a boy, Alfred P. Haake stuttered so badly he could not recite in school, but had to write his lessons on the blackboard. Today he is one of the United States' most sought-after speakers. He tells how faith worked the miracle.

Change In Criminal Code Aimed At Drunk Drivers

Attorney-General Wismer Surprised At Time Charge Is Challenged

A change in the Criminal Code to help drunken-driving charges stand up in the courts is favored by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

In answer to a question from Victoria's third member, D. J. Proudfoot, in estimates discussion in the Legislature Monday, Mr. Wismer said he hoped to go to Ottawa on the question after the session has prorogued.

The Attorney-General did not think the province had jurisdiction to deal effectively with the problem.

He said it was only in the last two years or so that drunkenness proof had been challenged so frequently in the courts, and acquittals had resulted.

"I can't understand it," he said. "We all know after seeing a person whether he or she is drunk or not."

Mr. Wismer said the suggestion that a change be made in the Motor Vehicle Act to make it compulsory for a driver to sign a document agreeing to the taking of a sample of blood from him, should he be suspected of intoxication, would not be effective.

The driver could change his mind when the time came, and the document he signed six months beforehand made no difference. So a police doctor taking the sample against his wishes would be guilty of assault.

A second suggestion, that any man suspected of drunkenness should undergo proper tests as a matter of practice and law, was favored by the Attorney-General.

This would require an amendment to the Criminal Code which Ottawa authorities were planning on changing at the current session of the House of Commons.

"My hope is to go to Ottawa after our session has concluded, and make representations, as I did on the question of crime comics, to see if something cannot be worked out to the satisfaction of the people, uniform for the whole of Canada," Mr. Wismer stated.

Fernie Member Doesn't Like Mounties Replacing B.C. Police

BY LLOYD BAKER

IT LOOKED for a time as though the government was going to get a real blast from the Legislature's lone Labor member, Tom Uphill, who was second-to-last speaker in Budget Speech debate in the House Monday.

Debate was concluded by Works Minister E. C. Carson after the little Welsh miner, who is now mayor of Fernie as well as a 30-year member of the Legislature, protested the merger of the B.C. police with the R.C.M.P.

He started in fine style, arguing that bobby-soxers might gaze at the red-coated Mounties in adoration but adult citizens of the province had different ideas.

The people of the province took pride in the many accomplishments of the provincial force; many officers of the B.C. police acted as government agents, mining recorders, registrars of vital statistics, performed marriages as justices of the peace, and undertook many other duties in addition to law enforcement.

"I have had many dealings with them," said Mr. Uphill, who was quick to quip: "But not as a prisoner."

Personally, he could see no reason why there should be any change in the force.

HE TONED DOWN considerably as he delved further into his notes, though, remembering that the change probably is pretty well cut and dried in coalition caucus.

So instead of furthering his protest, Mr. Uphill hoped that the present provincial police officers would get a square deal when the R.C.M.P. takes over.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer interrupted at one point to tell the Fernie Laborite the B.C. officers would be better off than they now are, but Mr. Uphill was not to be sold so easily.

He understood the B.C. police force's superannuation set-up was much better than that of the R.C.M.P. When a provincial officer died, his widow received a pension. But the lot of the Mountie's widow was unhappy. She got nothing.

THERE IS LITTLE likelihood the government will follow a suggestion of the Fernie member that any agreement with the national government on the deal be placed before the Legislature next year for approval or rejection.

The government hopes to have the merger completed in about six months, it is understood.

THERE WAS no slow-down on the part of Mr. Uphill when he got into the question of the proposed pipeline for oil from Alberta to the coast.

"So much for the police," said the Labor member. "Now I'd like to deal with a more slimy question—I mean oil. Not the fusel oil and water Bill Kennedy sells for whiskey, but the stuff you put in the jalopies belonging to the members and ministers and other capitalists that line the driveway of the Parliament Buildings."

Getting through that observation, Mr. Uphill laughed at the idea of a pipeline from the Alberta oil fields coming through B.C. to the coast.

The men who would be financing the construction were not sentimentalists, as some members of the Legislature appeared to be. They would be out to make returns and the cheapest route for the pipe was southward in Alberta and westward to the coast through flat lands, not mountains.

THERE WAS NO TALK in the House on the subject, but the enthusiasm in the corridors outside and upstairs in the Legislature's restaurant would have warmed the cockles of our tourist-promoters' hearts.

Education Minister W. T. Straith took 16 members on a fishing trip over the week-end from Maple Bay to Crofton Bay.

Six launches and guides took the lawmakers on the hunt for grilse, and 35 of the tasty scalars were landed.

They were served at luncheon by the parliamentary chef and everyone wants to get into the next party going out.

Those who had the sport, thanks to the Minister of Education, included Labor Minister John Cates, Arthur Ritchie, Salmon Arm; Thos. King, Columbia; W. A. C. Bennett, South Okanagan; Sydney Smith, Kamloops; Douglas Turnbull, Rossland-Trail; J. D. McRae, Prince Rupert; Andrew Whisker, Cowichan-Newcastle; Angus McLean, Cariboo; Robert Steele, Omineca; A. W. Lundell, Revelstoke; Maurice Finnerty, Similkameen; Walter Hendricks, Nelson-Creston; Bat MacIntyre, Mackenzie; Arthur Ash, Saanich, and J. D. Proudfoot, Victoria.

THERE WAS MUCH back-slapping outside of the Legislative Chambers when fast-talking Bert Gargrave paid a visit to his old "buddies."

He was the C.C.F. whip in the last Legislature who was defeated in Mackenzie in the June elections.

Popular on both sides of the House for his quick comebacks in debate and the digs he was forever making at the government, Bert contemplated some devilry when he sat on the floor for a short time during the sitting.

"It was all I could do to keep quiet," he laughed. "All they could have done was throw me out. I guess, but I held my tongue."

The men who would be financing the construction were not sentimentalists, as some members of the Legislature appeared to be. They would be out to make returns and the cheapest route for the pipe was

CONSIDERING NEW ROAD PLAN

Saanich Council is considering action to provide for sub-division roads to be paid for under the local improvement plan. This was learned Monday night when members wrestled with new problems which have arisen over such roads.

Ask Bus Turnouts On Speed Highway

The Provincial Department of Public Works will be asked by Saanich Council to take into consideration the provision of bus "turn-outs" when the East Saanich Road is converted into a speed highway starting this year. Councillor E. P. Cummins sponsored this motion at the council meeting Monday night. The turn-outs are considered a safety valve for persons riding in buses.

PENALTY FOR DRIVER

A total of $50 in two fines on two driving charges was imposed against Ralph Smele, 1141 Caedonia Avenue, in city police court Monday by Magistrate H. C. Hall. He pleaded guilty to driving while his license was under suspension March 4 and to exceeding the 30-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Favors Six Chickens For Urban Areas, No Roosters

Councillor Leslie Passmore is still championing the idea of allowing residents in the urban areas to raise chickens. His only stipulation is that crowing roosters remain "taboo."

Noting they are valuable assets to keep the home larder fattened, Mr. Passmore laughingly told Reeve Joseph W. Casey at Monday night's meeting, "You know, I think you and I are the only two in the municipality not keeping chickens." This brought a chuckle from the reeve.

"I've spoken to a lot of people who favor the plan of people in the areas zoned exclusively for residences being allowed to keep six layers," continued the outspoken council member. Chickens are barred from these areas—legally, that is—at the present time.

Mrs. Emily Blackstock, 3661 Savannah Avenue, doesn't see eye-to-eye with Mr. Passmore. She said, in a letter, she was unalterably opposed to chickens in residential areas. Whole matter is still in the hands of Councillor George Austin's health committee for study and report.

NO CONSTIPATION IN 20 YEARS

Prince Rupert Versatile Area Of Northern B.C.

Fishing, mining, lumbering, pulp and paper, aluminum, and gasoline comprise the versatility of the Prince Rupert area.

Newly-appointed M.L.A. for Prince Rupert, J. D. McRae, told members of the city Gryo Club some of the potentialities of his city and district at the club's luncheon meeting Monday at the Empress Hotel.

One of the main reasons for the boom in population of the northern settlement in the early days of the province was the fishing industry, Mr. McRae said.

The possibility of mining uranium at Hazelton, 110 miles east of Prince Rupert was being investigated, he said.

Mr. McRae told the meeting 57½ per cent of the district's logging and lumbering centred on the Queen Charlotte Islands. He said the area's pulp mill, which was now half completed, could supply employment for 1,000 men. As a result of the opening of the pulp industry in the area, there had been a great demand for more housing in the last two years.

Commercial Hockey Cup Victors

Winners of the Hocking and Forbes Cup, emblematic of the Commercial Hockey League championship, Jim Lackie's Douglas Tires sextette took a step in the right direction of the city playoff series last night by nipping the Navy 4 to 2 in the opening game of the best-of-three semifinal round. Tiremen finished the regular schedule a single point in front of the Fishermen's Co-ops. Left

Cougars Get Final Crack At Canucks

Vancouver Canucks and Tacoma Rockets hold the inside position for two of the three playoff berths to be decided in the northern division of the P.C.H.L. this week, but neither team can be classed as home free. And in this remaining week the Cougars play each team once.

The game against the Canucks goes at the Memorial Arena to night in Vancouver's last appearance here of the season.

It has been said before that the Cougars would like nothing better than to play a part in keeping the Canucks out of the playoffs. Well, last Friday the club gave the Canucks a lift by defeating Seattle, so in all fairness to the Ironmen, the fairest thing to do now is trim the Canucks.

Of the four teams battling it out for three playoff positions, the Ironmen and Portland Penguins face the toughest task.

REMAINING GAMES

Each has three games left, two of the games being against one another. Portland meets New Westminster in their third tussle and Seattle tangles with Tacoma. Vancouver has three, meeting the Cougars, tonight, Tacoma and New Westminster. Tacoma has four, one each against New Westminster, Vancouver, Seattle, and the Cougars.

At present Tacoma and Vancouver are tied for second place, two points ahead of Portland and Seattle.

The remaining schedule for the Cougars sees the club winding up its home schedule against Royals here Friday night and then moving on to Tacoma for the season's final against the Rockets Saturday night.

No player changes have been announced for the Cougars for tonight's game. And Coach Eddie Wares will probably stick with the forward lines that have performed so capably in the last few games.

On Friday it will be Fans' Night at the arena, with over $1,000 in merchandise prizes to be distributed.

Olhaverly Dies When Kicked In Head By Mare

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Olhaverly, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in 1947, was killed yesterday when kicked in the head by a mare.

Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Espinosa, owners of the 10-year-old South American turf great, said the horse, now in stud, was kicked at the Conejo Ranch in Camarillo, Calif.

Mrs. Espinosa said the kick fractured the horse's skull and that he died almost instantly.

GUSSIE MORAN WILL DO IT AGAIN

Peekaboo Blouse, Slit Skirts Planned For Wimbledon Tennis

LONDON (UP)—California tennis star Gertrude "Gorgeous Gussie" Moran may excite and shock staid Wimbledon this year with a peekaboo blouse and frilly trousers, the designer of her tennis togs said today.

"Wimbledon has seen nothing until Gorgeous Gussie steps on to the centre court in June," British designer Teddy Tinling said.

Tinling, who quit as official host at Wimbledon recently because he designed sensational lace panties and other unorthodox tennis wear for Gussie, said: "The world is starved for femininity and Gussie is going to give them that old appeal they crave for."

"She is most provocative of all tennis stars," Tinling said.

Gussie, a top-ranking star, already has caused two sensations in the tennis world because of her "daring clothing." Necks craned at Wimbledon last year when she introduced lace panties. Critics howled at Cairo, Egypt, last week-end when she stepped on the court in black shorts.

"If my client shocked the Egyptian world by playing in plain, ordinary black tennis shorts," Tinling said, "goodness knows what they will think of Gussie's new dresses."

PROVIDES DETAILS

Then the designer disclosed some of the details of the costumes Gussie may wear at Wimbledon.

"She may wear a two-piece ensemble showing a bare midriff—a broderie anglaise blouse and skirts with enough holes and slits to appeal to the most Casanova of all men," Tinling said.

"Or a simple dress with cross-over shoulder straps, showing plenty of what's under the cross-over," he added.

"Or she may choose to wear a revealing blouse and calf-length frilly trousers."

Tinling said Gussie had not yet made up her mind about a choice of costume. But he said he had sent her four sketches after she asked him to design "something really sensational for next summer's matches."

DOUGIE ADAM SHOULD CRACK SCORING MARK

Has Four Games To Pick Up Goal For Ice Record

SEATTLE (CP)—Tacoma's Doug Adam tied the Pacific Coast Hockey League's seasonal record of 50 goals during the week ending March 13 and has four games remaining to set a new mark.

Adam's bid to crack the record made last year by Portland's Pat Desbiens highlighted the next to last week of the regular schedule.

The league statistician reported today that only three of the 10 clubs are certain of their order of finish. San Francisco nailed down first place in the southern division and New Westminster copped the northern division crown in games last Saturday. Victoria cannot get out of the north's cellar.

All other teams still are in the running for playoff spots.

Ron Rowe of Tacoma continued to pace the circuit's scorers with 85 points—three ahead of teammate Wingy Johnston. Larry Silvestri of San Francisco tops the southern division with 74 and leads runner-up Maurice Vaillancourt of San Diego by six points.

TOP GOALIES

Lou Crowdis of San Francisco heads the goalies with an average of 3.06 goals allowed per game. Seattle's Jerry Cotnoir is the north's best with 3.16.

In the penalty department, Don Webster of Los Angeles has the most time in the box, 178 minutes. Tacoma's Norm Gustavsen is his division's worst offender with 169 minutes.

Favorites Find Going Tough In Junior Hockey

Just how unpredictable can hockey become? Lethbridge Native Sons and Moose Jaw Canucks, who finished one-two at the top of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League standings, now are on the brink of elimination from Memorial Cup contention.

Native Sons were held to a 5 to 5 overtime tie by Medicine Hat Tigers at Lethbridge last night while Canucks were handed a 5 to 3 loss by Regina Pats at Moose Jaw. Both of the league's best-of-five semifinal playoff rounds are on a point basis.

Tigers lead their series four points to two, having won the first game and tied the next pair. A Medicine Hat win Wednesday will eliminate Sons, whom Tigers were able to beat only twice in eight games during the regular season. Lethbridge finished 24 points ahead of the fourth-spot Tigers.

Canucks, who ended up five points ahead of Pats, now trail in their series 2 to 1 in games and a Regina victory Wednesday will eliminate the Moose Jaw club. Canucks have lost both of their home playoff games.

Nanaimo Wins Series Opener

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers took the first game of their Mainline-Okanagan Amateur Hockey League best-of-five final with Kamloops when they came from behind to win 5 to 2 Monday night.

Kamloops led 1 to 0 at the end of the first period, both teams scored once in the second, and Nanaimo tallied four in the final without a reply from Kamloops. Mel Gourdeau and Ray Voll scored two apiece for Nanaimo. Jack O'Hara got the other marker. Billy Hryciuk notched both Kamloops goals.

The rough and tumble playoff struggle was witnessed by 2,326 fans.

TRAIL WINS AGAIN

TRAIL (CP)—Kimberley's determined Dynamiters Monday night went down to a 6 to 3 defeat before Trail Smoke Eaters, giving the Trail team a 2 to 0 lead in the best-of-five series for the W.I.H.L. championship.

The series now moves to Kimberley for the third game.

Ellis Standout In Tiremen's Victory

Co-Ops Rout Hotelmen As Puck Playoffs Open

To all intent Fishermen's Co-op, should have little trouble in gaining the final round of the Commercial Hockey League playoffs, but to decide the other finalist after viewing the opening games of the league semifinals at the Memorial Arena last night would be pure folly.

The Fishermen found their chores relatively easy against the Hotelmen as they skated to a convincing 7 to 2 triumph in the first game of a best-of-three series, but for Douglas Tire, who edged Navy, 4 to 2, it was a battle from start to finish.

The Navy-Douglas Tire game, easily one of the best of the season, by any standard of play, left both teams and some 2,500 fans limp as the final klaxon sounded.

Both squads threw everything into the fray and the league champion Douglas Tire, the better opportunists, and backed by the sensational goaltending of Ab Ellis, never looked like losers after taking the lead midway through the second period.

HAS BIG NIGHT

Ellis was brilliant to say the least for Jim Lackie's squad. He kicked out a total of 43 shots, 18 in the final period when Navy made a desperate bid for victory.

Norm Jones in the Navy nets matched Ellis during the first two periods but was not given the protection afforded his rival.

Off to a fast start Navy took a 2 to 1 edge in the first stanza. Shandley gave the sailors the lead after just over a minute of play when he backhanded the rubber past Ellis but Len Elphick knotted the count for the Tiremen five minutes later on a rebound. Left-winger Cliff Coulter scored from a scramble in front of the goal near the 15-minute mark as Navy forged to the front.

The second period was only seven minutes old when Ken Gunter found the hemp for Tiremen to again put the teams on even terms. Three minutes later Fred Ritchie punched home what proved to be the winner on a blazing shot from well out that caught the top corner of the twine.

Navy received what at first appeared to be a break but turned out to be the deciding point in favor of Douglas Tire five minutes into the final period when defenceman Frank Warshawski of Douglas Tire was waved off for a penalty.

Throwing five forwards to the attack, the Navy squad got caught flatfooted when Gunter streaked out of his own end to go in alone on Jones and put the game on ice.

PAIR SPARK FISHERMEN

Jim Nielsen and Ed Varga sparked the Fishermen in their rout of Hotelmen. Nielsen was a tower of strength on defence while Varga was instrumental in setting up the Fishermen's offensive.

The Co-Ops rolled through the disorganized Hotelmen for 3 to 1 first period margin. Held on even terms through the second period, the winners struck for two fast goals in the final minute of the frame for a 5 to 0 bulge.

Hotelmen made a brief bid in the opening minutes of the third stanza and were rewarded with two goals. But they had little left, and tiring as the game drew to a close, were easy victims to the powerful Co-Ops, who appeared to get stronger as the game progressed.

Varga, the league's top scorer, was the leading pointmaker of the night with two goals and three assists.

Second games in both series will be played a week from tonight.

Two British Columbia championships remain to be decided before the curtain is rung down locally on another basketball season.

Both series will feature girls teams and both will be played this week-end.

Wally Yeaman's Unitys will carry the Island colors into the provincial senior B women's final against Vancouver Majorettes in a two-game total-point series, Friday and Saturday, while Hank Casillo's Arrow Furniture squad will engage another Majorette quintette in a sudden-death game for the B.C. Intermediate B girls title Saturday night.

The Saturday card starts at 6 with Arrows playing Majorettes. One hour later Unitys will meet the mainland champions.

Calgary Needs One More Win To Gain Final

SASKATOON (CP)—When they defeated Calgary Stampede in the second game of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League's semi-finals at Calgary last week, several Saskatoon Quakers predicted they would win the next three to take the best-of-seven series.

After Calgary's impressive 7 to 2 triumph here last night, Quakers, trailing 3 to 1 in games, now are forced to win the next three contests. The fifth is scheduled for Thursday at Calgary.

Held to a 1 to 1 draw in the first period, the Cowboys went on a rampage to outscore the Quakers 3 to 1 in the second session and rap home three goals in the third without a reply. Calgary's three, second-period tallies came within less than three minutes.

Dunc Grant, Johnny Millard and Roy Heximer each netted a pair of goals for Stampede, Mitch Pechet getting the singleton. Reg Bentley and Al Staley scored for Saskatoon.

Vic High Reds Regain Lead In Interhigh Soccer

Goals were at a premium yesterday afternoon in the Interhigh Junior Soccer League. Vic High Reds regained possession of first place by edging Mount View 1 to 0, and Vic High Greens and Esquimalt played to a scoreless tie.

With only two games remaining on the schedule, the Reds and Oak Bay are the only teams in the running for the title. The Reds play their schoolmates, the Greens, while the Bays battle Mount View next Monday.

Jim Cowie scored the only goal of the day to give the Reds their slim decision against Mount View a few minutes before full time. Winners held a slight advantage throughout, although there was little to choose between the two clubs.

Preliminaries Friday get under way at the regular time with Lake Cowichan High School clashing with K.V. Lions in the first game of a total-point series for the lower island midge boys crown at 7 and Elks meeting Sooke in an intermediate boys exhibition at 8.

First game of the senior B women's playoff follows at 9.

MECHANICAL UMPS WORK FOR DODGERS

Brooklyn Players Run Up Against Electronic Age

VERO BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn baseball club, has come up with a new mechanical gadget to call balls and strikes.

The machine, which was to have its initial test here today is called a "cross-eyed electronic umpire" and is alleged to "call 'em closer than any normally endowed umpire."

It was developed after nearly a year of research and experiment by the General Electric Company at Syracuse, N.Y.

Rickey explained that the gadget is not intended "now or ever" to replace manual umpiring in actual games. It is, he said, designed for training and experimental use.

He said the machine would operate even on an "overcast day, although it will not work at night."

The "electronic umpire" is a system of lenses, mirrors, electric eyes and other electronic equipment which lights a lamp when a ball is pitched through the "strike" zone. The lamp won't light if the pitch is a ball.

Lindsay Within Sight Of Crown

MONTREAL (CP) — Detroit Red Wings seem a sure-fire bet to capture the National Hockey League scoring title this season.

The league leaders have three players in the top positions on the scoring ladder with only seven games remaining in the 70-game schedule.

Pace-setter Ted Lindsay holds a six-point lead, with 69 points made up of 23 goals and 46 assists, over teammate Sid Abel. Abel has 34 goals and 29 assists, while Gordie Howe has 60 points — 29 markers and 31 assists.

Main threats to Detroit's big three are Boston's Paul Reilly and Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens. They trail Howe by four points.

Doug Bentley and Metro Prystai of Chicago Black Hawks are tied for fifth place with 49 points each. Another Black Hawk, Roy Conacher, is sixth with 48.

Wild Bill Ezinicki of Toronto Maple Leafs leads the penalty parade with 131 minutes spent in the cooler in 61 contests.

Montreal's Bill Durnan continues to lead the netminders in the Vezina Trophy race.

Turk Broda of Toronto holds a commanding lead in the shutout department with nine goose-eggs, more than Durnan.

HOOP SERIES RENEWED

Large Crowd Sees Aces Take Five-Point Lead

Reminiscent of the days when basketball was at its finest in the West Road area, over 400 rabid fans turned out for the first game in the renewal of the long dormant Saanich Cup series at the Saanich Agricultural Hall Saturday night.

The game, feature of a four-game card, saw Brentwood Aces eke out a 52 to 47 victory over the Saanichton senior C squad.

Two originals of the feuds of over 20 years ago wore the colors of Saanichton in the contest. They were Ralph Michell and Chuck Cunningham. Michell topped the Saanich squad in scoring with 12 points while Cunningham went scoreless.

Ronnie Benn paced the Aces to victory with 16 points. The second game will be played at a later date.

Saanichton midget girls sparked by Val Bate captured the lower island title from Lake Cowichan in one preliminary. Bate scored 12 points in the 31 to 9 victory. Saanich won the series by 40 points. Bate, captain of the team, was presented with the Women's Institute Cup by Mrs. A. Sutherland.

In another preliminary Saanichton Peewees trimmed Sooke, 15 to 7, to win the total-point series between the two clubs, 19 to 17. Leola Michell scored the winning basket in the closing minutes of the game. The Saanichton Community Club was presented to the winning team by R. Geoffrey, club president.

Kyne Seeks To Regain Control

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—William P. Kyne, California race-track operator, said today he would try to regain control of the Portland Meadows track here.

He said he would bid on the track at a sheriff's auction next Monday. The track is up for sale as the result of a recent mortgage foreclosure.

Kyne, who built the track in 1946, said he had asked the state racing commission for 40 days of racing this year.

ELKS WIN

Elks intermediate B boys defeated McMorran's of the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League 45 to 26 in their exhibition game Monday night. Elks led 25 to 12 at halftime.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Tommy Collins, 124½, Boston, outpointed Tony Longo, 124½, Baltimore (8).

Esquimalt High Trims Ladysmith

Esquimalt High girls' and boys' basketball squads came out on top over the visiting Ladysmith High teams in exhibition games played at the Fraser Street Hall.

The boys' tilt was a thriller all the way, with the dockyarders edging the up-landers 18 to 17. Barry Jackson paced the winners with seven points. In the girls' fixture, Esquimalt captured an easy 35 to 13 decision. Ruby Ross paced the local squad with 18 points.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

Victoria hockey fans who would like to think they have a special hate against Coley Hall and his Vancouver Canucks, should spend an evening intermingling with the New Westminster ice followers, as I did Saturday night, and they would experience a rude awakening.

Just mention the name of Hall and his Canucks anywhere in the Royal City rink and you've got yourself a first-class argument. The anti-Vancouver complex starts with Manager Ken McKenzie of the Royals, runs down through his players and winds up with the fans.

Good For Business, Says McKenzie

Main topic amongst the New Westminster fans centred around the question of whether or not the Canucks would make the playoffs. Nothing would please them better than to see the Vancouver club left on the sidelines. "If your Victoria team can knock off Hall's pets Tuesday night you'll sure be in solid with everybody in this city," was the trend of the remarks.

According to McKenzie his Royals can lose to any other team in the league and he doesn't come in for too much criticism, but let his team drop one to Vancouver and he has to beat a hasty retreat. "Of course it's good for business as there's always a full house when Canucks come to town."

Old Dutch Shows Off New Watch

At the invitation of Dutch Evers I talked myself into paying a visit to the Royals' dressing-room between periods. Putting my foot through the door first (I don't wear a hat although many people hold to the opinion I should cover up the bald spot), I waited for any unfavorable reactions, and when none developed walked in. Sitting down next to Evers I had hardly had time to light a cigarette when he proudly showed me a beautiful gold watch he received from the club and players on the occasion of his "night." "Got enough cigars to last me for months," Dutch cracked. "And you should have seen the boxes of chocolates and shirts. Boy, this is sure a swell town in which to play hockey."

Just about that time big Babe Pratt, coach of the Royals, went into action. As a first-timer in the dressing-room, I thought for a minute his bellowing was serious, until some of the players started to answer back, then I realized it was all good-natured ribbing.

"Love, you should get out and try some pick and shovel work to get that stomach down, then you might get up for some of those passes that are just missing the end of your stick."

Glancing around the room he next went after Lavell and Kirk. "Remember when Evers took the puck behind the Victoria net and made a wide sweep before passing in front—where in the hell were you guys? You had a good five seconds to get in position for a shot. The same thing has been happening all season."

Ollie Dorohoy Silences Pratt

Off in one corner Ollie Dorohoy was sitting quietly. Out of nowhere he piped out, "Notice you don't get back so good, Babe, on those fast breaks by the opposing forwards."

With that Pratt smiled and was silent the rest of the time. Just as the boys trooped out to start the third period he shouted: "Don't forget they need only one goal to be right back in the ball game, so let's get one before they do."

Gravelle Faces $20,000 Suit

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Chicago brothers have filed a $20,000 damage suit, charging they were clubbed with a hockey stick by Leo Gravelle of Montreal Canadiens while watching a National Hockey League game in the Stadium Nov. 2.

The suit was brought by Anthony Scornavacco, 30, and his brother, John. Named as defendants are Gravelle, the Canadiens and the Stadium.

The suit alleges the incident occurred after an exchange of words between Gravelle and the brothers. Gravelle was arrested after the fight, but later was released without a court hearing, the suit charges.

B.C.'s Educational Life Shown By Photo Display

Every phase of British Columbia's educational life is graphically depicted in a series of photographs now on exhibition in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings.

Pictured are the child who receives his education by correspondence, the blind boy who learns by touch, the crippled girl who gets her lessons in hospital... along with the youth attending a marine navigation class in the Vancouver Vocational Institute, the lad taking a watch-making course.

The activities of pupils in 1,200 schools throughout the province, from little one-room units to the metropolitan schools of the bigger cities, are shown.

"The exhibition has been arranged by the Department of Education to interest the public and members of the Legislature during session in the story of education in the province," said F. T. Fairley, deputy minister of education today.

"Some people think that education to meet modern needs is costly," he said. "In reality, it is far too expensive to do without because that way lies spiritual, cultural and economic stagnation.

"Money spent wisely on education today is an investment in the greatest resources of this province, its youth."

Graphs reveal the growth of the school population since 1933. There were 100,000 students in 1933 and, in 1949, the number stood at 166,000.

Predictions, based on B.C. births and immigration as at 1949, indicate a school population of 230,000 in 1960. In December of 1949, there were 49,635 temporary classrooms in use and 7,950 children attending schools in shifts.

"There were 522 building projects last year, including new schools from one room to 26, alterations and additions to existing schools," said Mr. Fairley.

The pictures were taken by the visual education division and some were enlarged from films lent by various school boards. The exhibit opened a week ago and will remain open all this week, closing on Saturday, J. R. Pollock is director of the division of visual education.

Wants B.C. To Act Or Return Power

Saanich Dissatisfied With Secession Stand

The British Columbia government is going to be asked by Saanich Council to do something definite about secession petitions before them "or give us back the power to handle the matter in our own way."

Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald in the Legislature last Friday indicated the government was unwilling to make a decision either way on the independence applications without first getting the opinion of Saanich Council. The council is maintaining a strict "hands off" policy and is literally telling the minister "it's your baby" now.

By a 4 to 2 vote council supported Councillor John G. Ryan's motion that the government again be asked to repeal the Saanich Relief Act of 1927. The act took the power away from municipal governments to deal with secession moves.

Mr. Ryan insisted Mr. MacDonald's letter in reply to last year's appeal that the act be rescinded be read. In his letter, the minister said he was personally in favor of the request.

HOW THEY VOTED

Mr. Ryan's motion was supported by Councillors E. P. Cummins, F. S. Green and George Austin. Oppose, were Councillors W. C. Kersey and L. H. Passmore. Councillor Sydney Pickles, strong pro-secessionist, was not present. He is on a trip south. Reeve Joseph W. Casey admonished Mr. Ryan for his move to "highball" something through when a man most vitally interested in the question (Mr. Pickles) was not present. The reeve told the councillor he could expect the same treatment himself one day.

Mr. Ryan maintained his action was not due to Mr. Pickles being absent. It was because the matter was before the House and immediate action by council necessary.

M.L.A. CRITICIZED

Reeve Casey was critical of Mr. MacDonald and Arthur Ash, M.L.A. for Saanich, on secession views.

"Mr. Ash has never consulted me or members of the council on the matter... so I am not one bit interested in what he says or thinks. A man who is supposed to represent Saanich should at least have consulted one or more of the councillors," said the reeve.

Referring to the municipal affairs minister, Reeve Casey said: "I feel as I have always felt, that if he wants to get rid of this contentious question, let him be big enough to get up in the House and give us back the power taken away years ago."

BELIEVED INADEQUATE

Mr. Ryan said he personally felt that the act was passed "because it was felt at that time this council was not adequate to handle the situation."

He added, however, "now apparently the minister and other members of the government see some wisdom in the council primarily dealing with it, and I feel their attitude justifies my motion in 1949 that the act be rescinded."

Mr. Kersey sought to have all motions brought up on secession ruled out of order by the chair. He received no seconder for his motion. Mr. Ryan thought this was an attempt on his colleague's part to block something he (Ryan) had in mind.

Many Changes In Solarium Staff

Staff changes at the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children were many during 1949. Miss Dorothy Andrew, assistant superintendent at the hospital, reported Monday at the solarium's annual meeting.

There is every indication, however, that the current year will see few changes, she said.

At Jan. 1, 1949, there were seven graduate nurses on the staff and 13 nurses' aids. During the year, nine nurses and 15 nurses' aides resigned. Seven new nurses and 22 new nurses' aides were appointed.

There were seven nurses and 20 aides employed at the hospital at the year's end.

A.-G. Against Proposal Of Bonding B.C. Lawyers

Lawyers should be bonded, Opposition Leader Harold Winch told the Legislature Monday when estimates of the Attorney-General's department were under discussion.

Clients of lawyers should be protected against frauds perpetrated upon them by "crooks in the legal profession," said Mr. Winch.

The C.C.F. leader cited the case of a former Victoria lawyer, J. Percival Wallis, now serving a penitentiary sentence for defrauding a widow out of more than $3,000.

Last year an amendment to the Legal Professions Act was brought in whereby the Law Society was to voluntarily establish a fund for such cases.

NO HELP YET

Mr. Winch said this fund amounted only to $10,000 and the Victoria widow had not been reimbursed as yet for her loss, although the lawyer was serving time.

The Attorney-General replied that it was neither feasible nor necessary to bond lawyers. A bond of $10,000 would cost $5,000 and lots of insurance companies would not give such a high amount of protection.

So far as the Victoria case was concerned, he was afraid it was "water under the bridge."

Reassessment Cost, Time Shock To Saanich Council

When Saanich Council members a short time ago decided they would like to have all properties re-assessed, thoughts were about an expense of around $1,000 and a year's effort—but they got a shock Monday night.

Municipal assessor F. Stanley Green showed them in a letter where the cost would be $24,150 and take about 14 months to hire assessors to investigate and bring into line the assessments of all properties in Saanich. Those figures have made the council pause. Before making a decision on the matter they will hear from Mr. Green personally. However, in spite of the cost, councillors believe it would be fully worth while. This is classed as one of Saanich's major problems. The inequality of assessment has been a cry sounded in council chamber for many years.

New Road System Being Adopted

The local improvement system to improve roads is catching on in Saanich. Residents of block six of Aldridge Street, between McRae and Knight Avenues petitioned Saanich Council Monday night to present them with a plan to show how much it will cost them to grade and resurface the road and install curbs and sidewalks.

"There's a 100 per cent approval of the plan on this petition," said Reeve Joseph W. Casey. The reeve said he also knows of other areas where similar projects are being seriously considered.

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

AFTER SIX MONTHS back in Victoria, Viv Shoemaker, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., is more convinced than ever that "it's good to be home."

"It's a privilege to live here," says Viv. "Mind you, it's a changed town from the one I left. It's definitely more city—more places to go, more things to do."

"You might say it's brasher, if you compare Victoria with what it was 10 years ago. That's probably part of the tempo of living now. It's still a good place to be. Nice folks."

SHOEMAKER is delighted that he can spot the men who used to be youngsters in his classes.

"They grow up and they change, but I've been lucky. So far it hasn't been too hard to place them, to remember brothers and others in the family. It's nice to have these reunions-on-the-fly with the postman, the bus driver and the delivery men. It's not so good, though, when somebody says 'hello' and memory doesn't click."

Viv is not a native son. Victoria's still home to him though, because in the 14 years he was at the Y before going east, he got married, set up his home and started his family.

"That gives you roots," he says. "That's one of the reasons I feel comfortable here, even if it's hard to get the kind of house you want."

SAM HILL, the Underwood man, doesn't laugh at the idea of a typewriter that someday will print messages without fingers hitting the keys.

That will be some development when it comes. The boss will dictate into a machine and the letter will come out already typed.

"It may not be as far-fetched as it sounds," says Sam, probably thinking of the electronic brain. "But who will the boss blame for mistakes in spelling then?"

Life is fairly simple in the typewriter business now, compared to what it was in the war. Firms are getting almost as many machines as they want.

LIFE MIGHT BE beautiful if only enough men would use the right hair oil. In newspapers, in magazines, on the air and on bus advertising cards the truth is being shouted. Yet the sad old world keeps butting its tangled locks against a dozen stone walls. It just won't read or listen.

Take the sports reporter who comes over a Vancouver station at quarter to eight each morning. With the roar of the crowd still echoing in the air, he dashes to the star to find out how he scores his goals. With the deep, slow voice of the mentally muscle-bound, the star tells him the practices hard, keeps in condition—and uses that one and only hair dressing. It's the hair oil that does the trick.

Take the bus ad. While Red Shaggyhead grips the wheel, all alone and sullen in the front seat of his car, the well-groomed smoothy sits in the back with the two beautiful young women. The power of the hair oil.

Look at the magazines and newspapers. Why the fellow who can't get his hair to stay down hasn't any more chance of getting an executive job than the man who doesn't buy sanforized shirts.

THIS IS OLD stuff to boys who were young when the straight-back pompadour came out. The method was slightly different then. Hair-styling was done by night. A boy needed the top of one of Ma's stockings and the large family-size jar of vaseline. He larded down his hair, pulled the stocking cap on, and spread a towel on the pillow slip to catch the grease that oozed through.

The result was remarkable—a head of hair that stood up like the quills on a frightened porcupine. After a few weeks, with good luck and perseverance, he had a "pom."

To be a success, pay attention to what's on your scalp, not what's under it.

You haven't got any hair on your head? Hmm. Have you tried glasswax? Gives a wonderful polish.

THE TALL MAN in the press-room like his moving pictures, but he's fed up with the customers behind him who use his shoulders as a foot rest.

"You stretch back and you get a shoe in the back of your neck," he says. "If it isn't that, it's somebody with St. Vitus' dance tapping his toe against the back of your seat. If you relax that too, then somebody is trying to kick you between the back of your chair and the seat."

The tall man has good reason to complain. Nothing is more disillusioning than to lean back during a tense moment on the screen and find your cheek nestling against a dirty boot sole.

Deputy Defends Married Women Says Some Make Best Teachers

Married women teachers were defended against criticism by Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy minister of education, at a House committee meeting on education at the Parliament Buildings this morning.

Questioned by a committee member on department policy concerning married women teachers, Dr. Fairley stated:

"I personally think married women—not recently married women, but married women of some maturity—make the very best teachers.

"We have quite a number of married women teaching, some widows and some with little else to do in isolated communities," he said. "We have no complaint with married women."

STILL A SHORTAGE

Continuing on a broader basis, Dr. Fairley said there was still a shortage of well qualified teachers in the province. He said that while there were no schools closed for lack of having a person to supervise classes, there were many schools where more highly qualified teachers were needed.

There are about 6,000 teachers employed throughout the province this year. Last year, he noted, about 900 teachers quit. Their places were taken by Normal School graduates and teachers from other provinces.

"We do not train enough to make up our annual loss," Dr. Fairley said.

WELCOME MORE MEN

At the present time, he went on, there are about 750 young persons learning to be teachers. There are nearly 400 students enrolled in the Vancouver Normal School, about 150 at the Victoria Normal School and an additional 200 at the University of B.C.

Dr. Fairley was glad to see more men entering the teaching profession.

More Schools Essential Deputy Tells Committee

There are more children in Vancouver below school age than there are in that city's school system, Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy minister of education, told a house committee on education which sat at the buildings this morning.

"And what applies to Vancouver," the deputy said, "goes for most other cities in the province as well."

According to government records, there have been 41,638 children born in Vancouver during the last six years. Experience has shown, he said, that more than 80 per cent of these children will seek to enter Vancouver schools when they are old enough. In addition, there will be children brought in from other cities.

This is somewhat alarming to school board officials, the deputy continued, in view of the fact that in the 1948-49 school year, total enrollment in grades one to 12 in Vancouver was only 37,535 and school facilities were taxed to about the limit.

"That is why we are going to have to build $20,000,000 worth of schools next year," Dr. Fairley said. "The situation is bad now but it is going to be worse."

He said unusually large child population was result of the war. There is always a high birthrate after any war, he told the committee.

ORPHANS SEE HOCKEY

Fifty children from the Protestant Orphanage will be special guests of Lester Patrick and Fred Hutchinson at tonight's P.C.H.L. game between the Cougars and Vancouver Canucks. Free transportation and refreshments will be provided by various city firms.

With Cordova Bay Anti-Secessionists

Cordova Bay Community Club anti-secessionists have another friend on Saanich Council. Councillors J. G. Ryan, F. S. Green and E. P. Cummins are in sympathy with their desire to avoid being "kidnapped" in the secession move in that former ward.

On Monday night Councillor L. H. Passmore said he was still in favor of allowing people, if they were in majority, to secede from Saanich "but if a majority in a section of that same area, such as Cordova Bay, want to stay with us I'm with them."

BEFORE PACKED AUDITORIUM

School Festival Opening Night Points To Success Of Revival

In the 10 years since the inception of the Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival, interest has steadily mounted, both on the part of the students and public.

Monday night, before a packed auditorium at Mount View High School, the festival opened and gave every indication of complete success. Ross Lort of Vancouver, who has been a popular adjudicator at several former festivals, will comment during the week, on 24 entries, including some from up-island.

Mr. Lort was introduced by H. S. Hurn, director of school and Community Drama. The festival was declared open by Hon. W. T. Straith, minister of education, who was introduced by the chairman of the committee, Hugh Creelman.

Mr. Straith said the Department of Education was proud of the work being done by the Community Drama Office. The purpose of the drama work in the schools was to develop latent possibilities in all students, not to create "stars," Mr. Straith declared.

"A SUNNY MORNING"

Presented by Mount View High School
Cast:
Don Laura Jean Alder
Petea Alan Kerr
Don Donalson John Macmillan
Juanita Robin Clarke
Director, Miss E. Pigott

This was a very good production, said Mr. Lort. The play was a pleasant one though there was not very much to it. The work of the cast was sincere and on the whole they handled the asides well, the adjudicator thought.

There was a good attempt at the necessary stylization and effective miming. Mr. Lort voiced emphatic approval of the unit style of scenery used.

Jojo (a seaman) George Vaughan
Mr. Peterson (the mate) Roger Ramsey
Strode John Macmillan
Swanson (seaman) Ian Shaw
Lennie Christopher Yorath
The Old Salt Michael Witter
Directors, Barry Green and Christopher Gregory

This production was excellently staged and most convincing in every detail, the adjudicator felt. He praised the introduction of a prologue (which was an addition to the script) and its delivery by Michael Witter.

There was some wonderful work done by John Sparks and the whole cast were responsible for developing a good climax. Mr. Lort said. Timing and pace were excellent.

"INTERLUDE TO DIPLOMACY"
author Unknown
Presented by Mount View High School
Cast:
Lord Windover Alex Burton
George Charles Jones
Hazel Amber Kilshaw
Violet Mariens Whiteley
Mrs. Martin Joy Davis
Director, C. G. Thomson

Once more unit scenery won special commendation from the adjudicator, as he declared the final entry on the evening's program showed a lot of good work on the part of director and cast.

Mr. Lort found the costuming and character contrast especially noteworthy. He spoke of the good natural acting and pleasing voice of Alex Burton and nice work on the part of Amber Kilshaw.

Dr. J. M. Thomas, principal of Mount View High School, was chairman of the evening.

TONIGHT'S PLAYS
Tonight's session will take place at Oak Bay High School and the program will consist of three plays: "My Late Spoused Saint," presented by Oak Bay High School; "The Dyspeptic Ogre," presented by Willows School; and "Prisoner's Base," presented by Oak Bay High School.

Public Toilets Ruled Out For Post Office

Ottawa has frowned on a request of City Council that a public comfort station be installed in the new Post Office building, it was learned at City Council today.

Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer, who was instructed to write Dominion Public Works Minister A. Fournier and Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew, seeking support for inclusion of public conveniences in the new building, advised the council of the reply.

"I regret to advise you that it is not deemed advisable to include installations of this type in public buildings," Mr. Fournier wrote Dr. Gayton, "do not feel, therefore, that your request can be granted."

Mr. Mayhew also wrote Dr. Gayton, stating it would be very difficult to change the design of the building at this late date.

Use Of D.V.A. Hospitals Will Bring Relief To Overcrowding

But Admittance Of Non-Pensioners May Add To Hospital Insurance Costs

Announcement from Ottawa Monday that starting April 1 veterans not in receipt of war pensions will be admitted to D.V.A. hospitals provided there is bed space, is expected to bring relief to crowded civilian hospitals but probably will mean greater expenditures for the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

Veterans Minister Gregg told the Commons the veterans using D.V.A. hospitals, other than pensioners, must pay for their care, but will not have priority over pensioners receiving free care.

There are several technicalities to be straightened out in the plan as it affects B.C. veterans covered by hospital insurance.

Since the beginning of the year the hospital insurance service has had an arrangement with veterans' hospitals that in the case of veterans being admitted who are not entitled to D.V.A. care, the insurance service paid the charges. There have been some cases of non-pensioners being admitted to D.V.A. hospitals in emergencies.

What the situation will be in regard to doctors' care is not known. D.V.A. hospitals have staffs of physicians who treat pensioners without charge. It is unlikely non-pensioners would receive medical treatment free.

It is understood the D.V.A. hospital here is nearly always filled, although a 60-bed addition is planned.

In Vancouver the situation is said to be different—that Shaughnessy hospital will be able to give needed relief to civilian hospitals.

The additional beds being made available in the veterans' hospitals will mean higher hospitalization. Consequently the hospital insurance service will be paying a greater number of bills.

The D.V.A. operation charge is uniform throughout Canada, and is reported to be slightly less here than the charge at civilian hospitals, although actual cost of operation to the national government might be higher.

FLOWER BASKETS $11.60 EACH

City Council today was asked to give its approval to a parks and boulevards committee recommendation for maintenance of flower boxes and baskets on downtown property.

Arrangements were made between the parks department and Victoria Chamber of Commerce whereby the department would handle maintenance at the rate of $3.50 per running foot for flower boxes and $11.60 per flower basket for construction and maintenance.

Chamber To Meet

A general membership meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be held at noon Friday at Loughheed's Banquet Club.

Directors will deal with current topics and general members will be given a chance to take part in discussion.

GOAT BREEDERS TO MEET

The B.C. Goat Breeders' Association will hold its 33rd annual meeting at the Y.W.C.A. Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Election of officers for 1950 will be held. The association now has more than 300 members.

NUDISTS TO GATHER

Convention Notice Sent To Island Sunbathers

Claiming that sun bathing conventions are to nudists what camp meetings were to old-time fundamentalists, the Canadian Sunbathing Association of Vancouver is sending out letters saying this year will be one of progress for the back-to-nature movement.

Vancouver Island is included in the association's plans. Victoria, Port Alberni, Comox, Nanaimo, are mentioned among the cities in which group leaders and organizers have reported progress.

Conventions will be held in British Columbia, Washington and Oregon, the letter says. "These gatherings number into the hundreds, with enthusiasts traveling long distances to gather at private camps for communal sunbathing, swimming and outdoor games."

Largest convention will be the national convention of the American Sunbathing Association, to be held near Yelm, Washington, early in August. Approximately 500 nudists from all over United States and Canada will attend.

NUMBERS GROWING

Canadian nudists will hold their western regional convention in the Fraser Valley. Attendance last summer at this event was over 100, but officials stated that the number of active sunbathers in the lower mainland area alone has now grown to over 400.

Members emphasized the value of sunbathing as a health measure. They claim a returned veteran with lung trouble who "had been sent home to die," disregarded doctors' instructions, and fought his way back to health by a daily routine of complete rest and exposure of his whole body to the sun for hours each day.

A Flower Border Fence
Useful And Ornamental

By PENNY SAVER

"Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?" ... It grows very well, thank you, if I can keep mad dogs and children from running through the petunias.

"But I don't take chances," says the nursery rhyme horticulturist. "I always put up a flower border fence. It doesn't cost me very much, in fact, 12 cents a foot! The ornamental fencing is an added attraction to any garden and of course it serves as a protection for the flower borders."

FOR C.W.A.C.'s

Dinner Meeting In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 200 former members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps last week took a sentimental journey back to their khaki days at the first official dinner of the C.W.A.C. Association.

Lt.-Col. Joan Kennedy, president of the group and chairman of the meeting, told members that groups of former C.W.A.C.'s were holding similar dinners at Windsor, Ont.; Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria.

She explained that one of the aims of the newly-formed association was to "foster social relations among former C.W.A.C. members."

Guest speaker of the evening was Maj.-Gen. G. R. Peakes, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Nanaimo, and patron of the organization.

No date has been set or place for the dinner in Victoria as yet. It has been announced by Miss Lesley Murray, 3601 Cedar Hill Road, who is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Murray, former lieutenant in the C.W.A.C. is being assisted by several former members of the corps in Victoria. All former members of the corps are eligible to attend the dinner.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think is a father's duty to his children after they are all grown up and married? I gave mine college educations, set them up in business, in which they made no effort to make succeed, and paid the debts they contracted. I was left a widower, lonely and without a home and I married a widow who has made me very happy and comfortable, but my children resent my marriage. The think that all of my money should go to them. Have I no right to my own?

A FATHER

Answer: I think you did exactly right in marrying and that your children have no right to object. Certainly the man who makes his own money is entitled to spend it as he pleases. A father who has supported and educated and helped his children get a start in life has done his duty by them financially, and it is up to them to take care of themselves.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

When mothers work out home problems to their own satisfaction they have a desire to pass on the information to others. I am always happy to print good suggestions, though I retain the privilege of determining what is and what is not good child-rearing practices.

A Faithful Reader says she reads the column daily and feels that she has some advice she would like to give to the mother of the 7 1/2-month-old baby who refuses to eat.

"Please tell her," she writes, "to try letting her little daughter hold a small spoon in her hand while she is being fed. Put the dish of food on the tray in front of her and let her dabble in it with her spoon. The mother will have to hold onto the dish, of course."

"This has worked with my boy since he was eight months old and now at a year he does a pretty good job of feeding himself. Also, I give him every let him eat it himself. He is such a happy, healthy baby, not having a sick day since he was born. I wish you all the luck in the world."

How nice of you. I think it an excellent idea to allow a child to learn to feed himself by holding a spoon while his mother feeds him purposefully. His own attempts to feed himself will be unsuccessful at first. To help, his mother may put her hand over his on the spoon and show him how to direct it into the dish and then up to his mouth. When he begins to pull away from her hand she may let him use his spoon as he pleases.

Not only do children enjoy imitating what is being done for them, but they are less apt to get into mischief if they are engaged in some activity rather than sitting motionless and opening their mouths only when the spoon approaches.

Our leaflet No. 44 "Teaching Use of Cup and Spoon," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldrid in care of this newspaper.

I.O.D.E Tea Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. F. H. Parsons, regent of Sir James' and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., received guests at a tea held by the chapter, to commemorate the 107th birthday of Victoria.

The successful affair, which realized $20 for the chapter's funds, was held at headquarters. Among special guests were Mrs. J. L. Ford, municipal regent, and municipal officers.

Daffodils centred the tea table, covered with a lace cloth, and Mrs. A. McAllister and Mrs. R. L. Brain, assisted as servers. Mrs. G. A. Ventrone was in charge of receipts.

During the afternoon Miss Madge Wolfenden, assistant provincial archivist, spoke on early days in Victoria and the education system and modest living and dress of the people at that period.

Among facts of interest, she told the gathering that in the early days, a wedding was a city event, and that following the service, the principals paraded up and down the street, in order that every one could see them.

Far North School Teacher Only Woman To Be Awarded Coveted Scouters' Medal

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian scouting history will be made within the next two weeks at a small unnamed Eskimo settlement, 200 miles within the Arctic Circle.

Dorothy Robinson, who teaches school to the Eskimo children at the settlement, will receive her scouters' medal. The award will make Miss Robinson the only woman so designated in Canada, probably in the world.

Girl guide and boy scout provincial field commissioners here, Beth Riddoch and Herbert Northcott, said the award is made only in extraordinary cases where a woman has taken over cubmaster and scoutmaster duties for a certain period of time.

The commissioners said it is the only award they know of on which Governor-General Alexander, the Dominion's chief scout, does not use a "rubber stamp" signature.

The two scout commissioners today left by plane on a tour of far northern scout posts. They hope to visit 17 of them.

"The children in the north are much better at the outdoor work of guiding and scouting than those in other parts of Canada could hope to be, so there is little we can teach them in that line," says Mr. Northcott.

"But otherwise they follow much the same pattern of work, badges and handicrafts," added Miss Riddoch. "They feel it gives them a strong link with the world outside."

Aklavik, N.W.T., will be one of the commissioners' stops, here Mr. Northcott will present a long-service medal to Victor Oke for his 10 years of scouting.

The commissioners hope to add at least three more far northern points—Hay River, Fort McPherson and Radium—to the already impressive map of the world's most northerly outposts of guiding and scouting.

GIRLS PLAN WORLD TRIP HOPE FOR LUCKY BREAKS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Amelia Zurick and Nancy Halford are off to see the world—mostly by thumb, bicycle and luck.

Friday they quit their jobs as record clerks at the unemployment insurance commission. Last night they left by train for New York. March 23 they sail on the Queen Mary, England their first stop.

Amelia, 26, and Nancy, 28, had a month's vacation in the Bahamas in 1948.

"We haven't been content since," said Amelia. "A couple of months ago we decided we'd had enough of office routine and decided to chuck it all."

"We don't know when we'll be back but we're sure going to have ourselves a time before we do."

The girls said they plan to visit every continent. Their parents at first thought the adventure was a silly idea. The girls promised to buy a return steamship ticket before they left. Then the parents became as enthusiastic as the daughters.

Both Nancy and Amelia pooh-poohed any suggestions they are on a world-wide manhunt.

"Romance has nothing to do with it," they chorus.

Schools To Receive Gifts Of Framed Pictures, Books

Mrs. Hall also reported that two books, entitled "The Story of Canada," were being presented to the schools.

Postwar work convener, Mrs. G. P. Clarke, said used clothing valued at $51 had been sent to an adopted family in England, and two food parcels valued at $10.05 and new clothing turned in by members.

The chapter decided to sponsor the Veldt Wille Dance Revue in May and plans were made to hold a telephone bridge the last week in March.

Mrs. Steele was named delegate to provincial annual meeting. She will be accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Fulmer, standard-bearer. Mrs. Nelson K. Ball was welcomed as a new member.

Conveners were named as follows: Mrs. G. P. Clarke, post war work; Mrs. A. Oakley, child and family welfare; Mrs. J. Corry, ex-service personnel; Mrs. J. Bryant, membership; Mrs. W. E. Akenhead, endowment fund; Mrs. R. W. Laidler, Empire study; Mrs. E. W. Mackenzie-Grieve, work in India; Mrs. Warren Smith, press, and Mrs. C. L. Bishop, films.

Councillors are Mesdames J. Bryant, H. Baker, W. G. Leith, E. W. Mackenzie-Grieve and W. E. Akenhead.

Mrs. Warren Smith was appointed honorary regent and Mrs. G. Sisman, honorary vice-regent.

Regular meeting, Carne Rebekah Lodge, No. 45, Odd Fellows' Hall, Thursday at 8. . . . Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., St. Patrick's Day bingo party, Thursday at 2 at headquarters.

Women's Council Completes Probe Into Flour Question

Local Council of Women committee, investigating further the question of whether millers add preservative material to flour, and whether the added material was of more or less food value, reported on communications with a Vancouver flour firm, at the council meeting yesterday afternoon in Y.W.C.A.

Council committee announced that, according to the Vancouver firm, the law requires all millers who add anything to wheat ground into flour, whether vitamin enrichment or improver, to state that fact on the sack. In some cases, the improver consists of a harmless compound which makes flour somewhat whiter.

This is used by millers, it was pointed out, in an endeavor to meet the public demand for pure white flour.

Without the improver a flour would tend to have a creamy hue and in comparison with a flour containing improver, might appear greyish.

There is no difference in food value, the report concluded.

Mrs. F. H. Parsons, acting president, was in the chair.

A talk illustrated with films, was given by Sergeant Brooke Douglas, assisted by Constable Ian Duncan, on "Traffic Safety Rules."

Members were reminded that the tree-planting ceremony in memory of the late Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie would take place Thursday at 2.30 in Beacon Hill Park. Members will meet at the corner of Douglas Street and Avalon Road.

Mrs. Conway Pelly, treasurer, reported a bank balance of $222.14, and Mrs. A. Ketchell told members that sale of dogwood pins realized $6.

Mrs. H. Rae, reporting for the visiting committee, said that 20 T.B. patients in Jubilee pavilion and 10 in St. Joseph's Villa had been visited and gifts distributed.

A committee with Mrs. R. D. Harvey as convener, will undertake decorating of the chapel for Easter services, and it was decided that in future the auxiliary would hold the monthly meeting on the first Monday of each month.

Mrs. G. D. Edwards was appointed to the purchasing committee. Next meeting will be April 3 at 2.

Aid For Dollar Shortage Seen In Oil Development

Says Alberta Discoveries Already Have Played Vital Part In Trade With U.S.

Current development of oil in western Canada will undoubtedly go a long way in helping solve the shortage of U.S. dollars in this country, Fred V. Seibert, Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, told the Victoria branch Monday night.

"Recent oil discoveries in Alberta are of outstanding importance in our trade with the American dollar area. These discoveries already have played an important part in our trade with the United States, eliminating practically all importations of oil and oil products in the prairie provinces, and representing an improvement of $90,000,000 per year," Mr. Seibert said.

The speaker, who is industrial commissioner for the Canadian National Railways, noted that value of coal and petroleum products imported into Canada from the U.S. in 1948 exceeded the trade deficit with that country.

COAL PROBLEM

Though optimistic over oil, Mr. Seibert said the coal problem still existed. He said that in spite of huge coal reserves, Canada had not found a solution to the geographical handicap imposed by the location of these reserves in respect to the large consuming market in the industrial heart of the Dominion and the proximity of U.S. mines to that market.

Dealing with the public's knowledge of mining activities, the speaker said one of the first things the institute had to do, quietly but firmly, was to tone down or eliminate such phrases as "unlimited natural resources," "inconceivable wealth" and "untouched mineral wealth beyond our fondest dreams."

The mining group's president said that promising new discoveries were harder and harder to find each year and they required greater expenditure involving more risk in order to prove their commercial possibilities.

Mr. Seibert touched briefly on the increasing importance to railways of freight traffic returns from hauling minerals and mineral products.

The place of gold mining in foreign trade could not be over-emphasized, he said, adding that it was Canada's number one commodity for paying for imports, especially from the U.S.

New Air Service To B.C. Interior

A new daily air service to Kamloops and Williams Lake will go into operation April 17, Canadian Pacific Airlines announced.

Included in the new schedule are stops at Quesnel and Prince George. This will give Prince George a twice-daily service to Vancouver as the existing flight to Whitehorse includes a stop at that point.

The new flight will be the fourth daily service C.P.A. operates to points in the interior of B.C. from its Vancouver headquarters.

Davey Charges Interference In Labor Case

Interference by a member of the Labor Relations Board was charged this afternoon by H. W. Davey, K.C., city nominee on the board of arbitration between the City of Victoria and Civic Employees' Protective Association, Local No. 50, representing outside staff in the wage dispute.

The lengthy minority report by Mr. Davey threw a veritable bombshell into the quiet City Council meeting this afternoon.

Explaining the basis of the charge, Ald. W. Pinfold of the city's civic service committee said the arbitration board had agreed on a 3-cent-an-hour increase.

"The three members took an oath and were sworn to secrecy but, 15 minutes after the decision, the union was notified," Ald. Pinfold said.

"The union immediately threatened to strike."

"Our contention is that the board had set three cents an hour but had not signed the award," said the alderman. "Now we learn they have signed an agreement for seven and one-half cents."

"They apparently did it in an effort to avoid a strike, but the city was not asked to consider whether it wanted a strike."

City Solicitor A. J. Patton recommended that City Council repudiate the seven and one-half cent award in view of the minority report of Mr. Davey.

48 Civil Servants Fired By Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain has removed 48 civil servants from their posts since March 15, 1948, because of "doubtful political reliability," the House of Commons heard today.

Douglas Jay, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, said in replying to written questions that these dismissals included 22 on grounds of membership in the Communist Party, one for membership in the Fascist Party, and 25 on grounds of association with the Communist Party "in such a way as to raise legitimate doubts as to their reliability."

LATE NEWS

Attlee Wins Third Vote

LONDON (CP)—The government tonight won by 19 votes a House of Commons confidence vote over alleged government oversteering.

The vote against the motion, tabled by the Conservatives, was 308. Votes for the motion numbered 289. It was the third successive vote of confidence won by Labor in the new House of Commons.

Bombay Rioting Resumes

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Hindu-Muslim rioting flared up again today in this tense city, with three Muslims reported stabbed.

The curfew clamped on the Muslim area Monday night was lifted, with a dusk to dawn bid placed in most Hindu areas where there are a few Muslim pockets. The unofficial toll from the disturbances which broke out during the week-end stood today at five dead and 18 wounded.

Deportations Halted

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced this afternoon that two young Spaniards awaiting deportation from Canada have been ordered held at Montreal pending further inquiry.

He told the Commons no action will be taken to deport the men—Enrique Montenegro and Angel Parra, both 20—until this further study of their case is completed and Immigration Minister Harris has been able to study the results.

Senate Reform Considered

HALIFAX (CP)—The Chronicle Herald said today there are persistent reports in Ottawa that the federal government is considering a measure of Senate reform.

The dispatch from Ottawa said the plan being considered is the appointment of Progressive Conservatives to the Senate as further vacancies occur. The 12 existing vacancies would be filled by Liberals.

Mine Blasted Off Oregon

SEATTLE (AP)—District Coast Guard headquarters reported today the explosion of a floating mine, believed to be of Japanese origin, off the Oregon Coast.

Rifle fire from the cutter Balsam exploded the mine about 6 p.m. off Cape Blanco. A search of more than a day had been carried on after merchant vessels reported having seen it.

Venice Rioting

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Five workers were wounded by gun fire today, two of them seriously, when strikers from the Breda works clashed with police. One victim was shot in the stomach, another in the head.

The strikers, who walked out Monday in demand for back pay, had blocked traffic on the Ponte di Venezia, the long bridge which connects Venice with the town of Mestre. Police used tear gas to disperse the workers. The strikers stoned the police.

The Breda factories manufacture airplane and ship engines, locomotives and electrical appliances.

Sentenced To Death For Airline Murder

QUEBEC City (BUP)—J. Albert Guay, the 32-year-old jewelry salesman who engineered what was called most bizarre crime in history, was sentenced today to hang on June 23.

Guay was found guilty of murdering his wife by the time-bombing of a DC-3 airliner which crashed at Sault au Cochon, Que., on Sept. 9. Twenty-three persons, including Guay's wife Rita, perished in the tragedy.

The jury which passed sentence took only 20 minutes to decide Guay's fate, the shortest period ever taken by a jury in Canadian murder trial history.

After Judge Albert Sevigny passed sentence, Guay stood up and said in a clear voice: "I have nothing to say."

Pandemonium broke loose in court; then Judge Sevigny congratulated the 12-man all-French jury on their verdict amid wild scenes in the courtroom.

ORDER RESTORED

Police were forced to restore order.

Guay's death sentence climaxed one of the most sensational murder trials in Canadian history.

Throughout the 15 days of testimony the strain on all concerned was apparent.

The trial's highlights came when Mrs. Marguerite Pitre, one of Guay's accomplices to the crime, and Marie-Ange Robitaille, his self-confessed mistress, gave evidence.

They revealed how Guay had planned his wife's murder, with the aid of clockmaker Genereux Ruest, who helped make the fatal death-delay time-bomb.

They showed in detail Guay's passion for Marie-Ange, a 19-year-old nightclub waitress, who admitted having lived with Guay as man and wife on several occasions.

Their evidence revealed Guay's inner thoughts as he worked and planned for the day of his wife's death, when 22 other innocent human beings were sent plummeting to their death in the ill-fated airliner.

From their testimony, the jury was able to decide how Guay forced Mrs. Pitre to plant the time-bomb aboard the airliner, then intended to make her confess to the crime and commit suicide.

EVIDENCE FITTED

And even on the day his wife was blown to pieces aboard the airliner, Marie-Ange revealed how Guay had attempted to make love to her a few hours after the crash.

On all sides, the evidence built up against Guay by Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion was knitted together like a jigsaw puzzle.

Witnesses said he cried when he was told of her death, and testified he had been good to his wife, buying her expensive clothes and flowers frequently.

But the waitress' evidence that Guay had made love to her proved to be one of the major marks against him.

Guay intended to marry Marie-Ange after his wife's death, the Crown charged.

"He even took out a $10,000 accident insurance policy on his wife's life before the crash which was intended to finance his betrothal to Marie-Ange," Dorion charged.

Announcement of Guay's death sentence followed a three-hour summing up from Judge Albert Sevigny, climaxed by his calling for the justice of God.

When Judge Sevigny ended his lengthy address to the tense-looking jury, he showed the emotion and strain of the long 15-day trial.

His final words were: "Nothing escapes the justice of God."

"Go and do your duty as jurymen to see that the laws of God and your country are respected and those who break them are punished," he said dramatically.

Mayhew Alters House Talk On Barter Scheme

OTTAWA (BUP)—Fisheries Minister Robert Mayhew told Parliament today his suggestion of a national export-import corporation was not to be a government-financed body.

Mayhew, who proposed the unconventional barter scheme in the Commons yesterday, said the Trade Commissioner Service of the federal government could facilitate barter deals between Canadian exporters and foreign businessmen. He had not intended to suggest, however, that the government should finance the transactions, he said.

Mayhew modified his original suggestion when he asked that a change be made in the printed record of Monday's debate. Opposition leader George Drew protested, asking "is this a correction in Hansard or is this a new speech on the same subject?"

Mayhew explained that the final draft of his speech had been prepared just before he spoke, and he had not had time to read it over before delivering it to the Commons.

In Parliament Hill corridors today, there was considerable speculation about Mayhew's suggestion. Opposition members wondered whether it was to be adopted as government policy. If not, they said, Mayhew's position in the cabinet would be embarrassing if, after proposing the barter scheme as a solution to trade difficulties, the government refused to adopt it.

Quebec Boy, 16 Charged With Killing Father

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (BUP)—A 16-year-old youth today was charged with murdering his father, while his mother was also charged with inciting her son to kill.

The two charges were laid at a preliminary hearing following the gunshot slaying of 48-year-old Arthur Sutton, a farmer at Covey Hill, located about 40 miles south of Montreal.

Police arrested the boy and his mother after they found Sutton lying sprawled in his home Saturday night, blood pouring from a gunshot wound in the right leg.

The bullet cut the main artery of Sutton's leg, and though first aid was rendered immediately, he died within the hour.

Neighbors of the Suttons said there had been a violent quarrel earlier in the evening between the couple.

Britain To Get U.S. Superforts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain will get B-29 Superfortresses under the U.S. arms aid program, the Defence Department announced today.

It said the first flight of four of the bombers will take off next Monday. They will bear R.A.F. markings but will be flown by American crews.

The total number of superforts to be sent to Britain was kept secret.
